FOREWORD

Shouts of delight resound throughout the building as the warmth of a September sun and an autumn breeze create excitement on the opening day of school. There is no way to contain within ourselves the glow of emotion which we, too, automatically radiate. As friends are reunited and past experiences relived, our thoughts are gradually diverted from the things which were to those which are and will be.

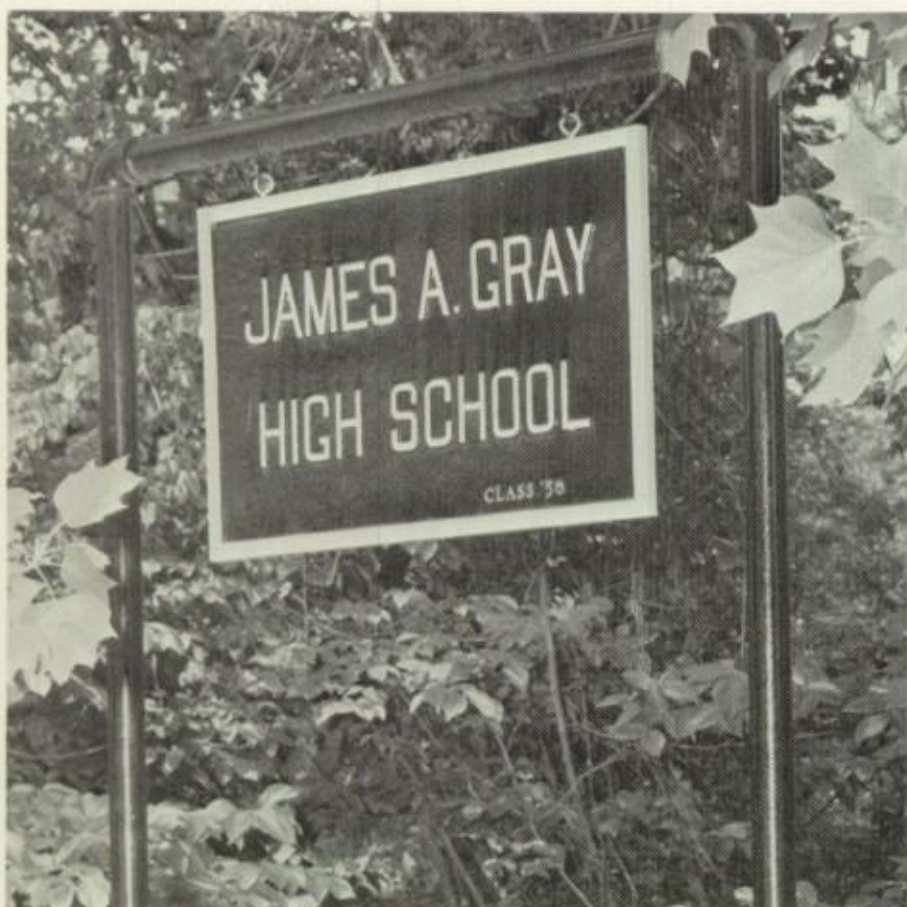

Immediately catching our attention are the new facilities which have been added to our school. Students peer around a corner of the building to see the two mobile classroom trailers and wonder whether they will be fortunate enough to have classes in the air-conditioned units. Examination of the familiar cafeteria unveils a newly installed snack bar and additional seating area to provide for increased enrollment.

As the novelty of a beginning school year quickly evolves into our daily format, we continue to develop our ideas and abilities through concentrated study and use of more advanced teaching materials. A language laboratory and various visual aids boost the enthusiasm with which we regard our assignments.

Although winter greets us with a haze of grey and the chill in the air turns to biting cold, we are able to retain within us the glow kindled by enduring friendships made with our principal and teachers; students, both at home and abroad; and members of the community, all of whom have unfalteringly given of their time, patience, and understanding.

We present the Blue and Gold, not only as a record of specific experiences which symbolize the essence of our school life, but also as a registry of the spirit of bonhommie that has made this the wonderful year, 1963-1964.

start for home after another day of working together.

"Standing over 'midst the forest, 'neath the oak tree shade," James A. Gray High School, built in 1930, houses within its walls a realm of solemn study, close fellowship, and resounding laughter. Young people, eager to learn and quickly responsive to friendships made in these formative years, meet regularly in the halls and around the campus to discuss the exciting game of the previous night, the happenings of the day, and important events that lie ahead. Cheery smiles and gay greetings create a congenial atmosphere of companionship which envelops all. Slowly and tediously, educational skills are acquired as numerous hours are spent on special projects and term papers. Scholastic life, revolving around understanding teachers, modern textbooks, and well-equipped classrooms and laboratories, offers great challenges to each inquiring mind. By concerning themselves with the welfare and reputation of the school, all feel that they are important parts.

school life atmosphere.

Students come together on the circle to converse and study.

Warm weather beckons Grayites to the patio during free time.

Eager to serve the school and community, we have willingly given of our time, ability, and youthful enthusiasm, hoping that each task performed would contribute in a small sense to the achieving of a happy, peaceful world. Working as hospital aides, supporting various projects such as the heart fund, the Veterans' Poppy Sale, and Thanksgiving food collections were ways in which we strove to repay our community for the many benefits it offers. The realization of the joy of giving filled every heart with self-satisfaction and a strong feeling of being needed and loved.

Grayites willingly give time and use skills to serve

Working during spare time as a Red Cross volunteer, Sherry Dagenhardt spends extra minutes reading to a charming young patient.

Honored at a surprise party, Mr. Charles Talton, photographer, and daughter Terri, journalism mascot, proudly display gifts presented as tokens of appreciation by year-book and newspaper staffers.

the school community.

As service to the school, Lester Willard uses spare time to render a paint job to bleachers used for yearbook pictures.

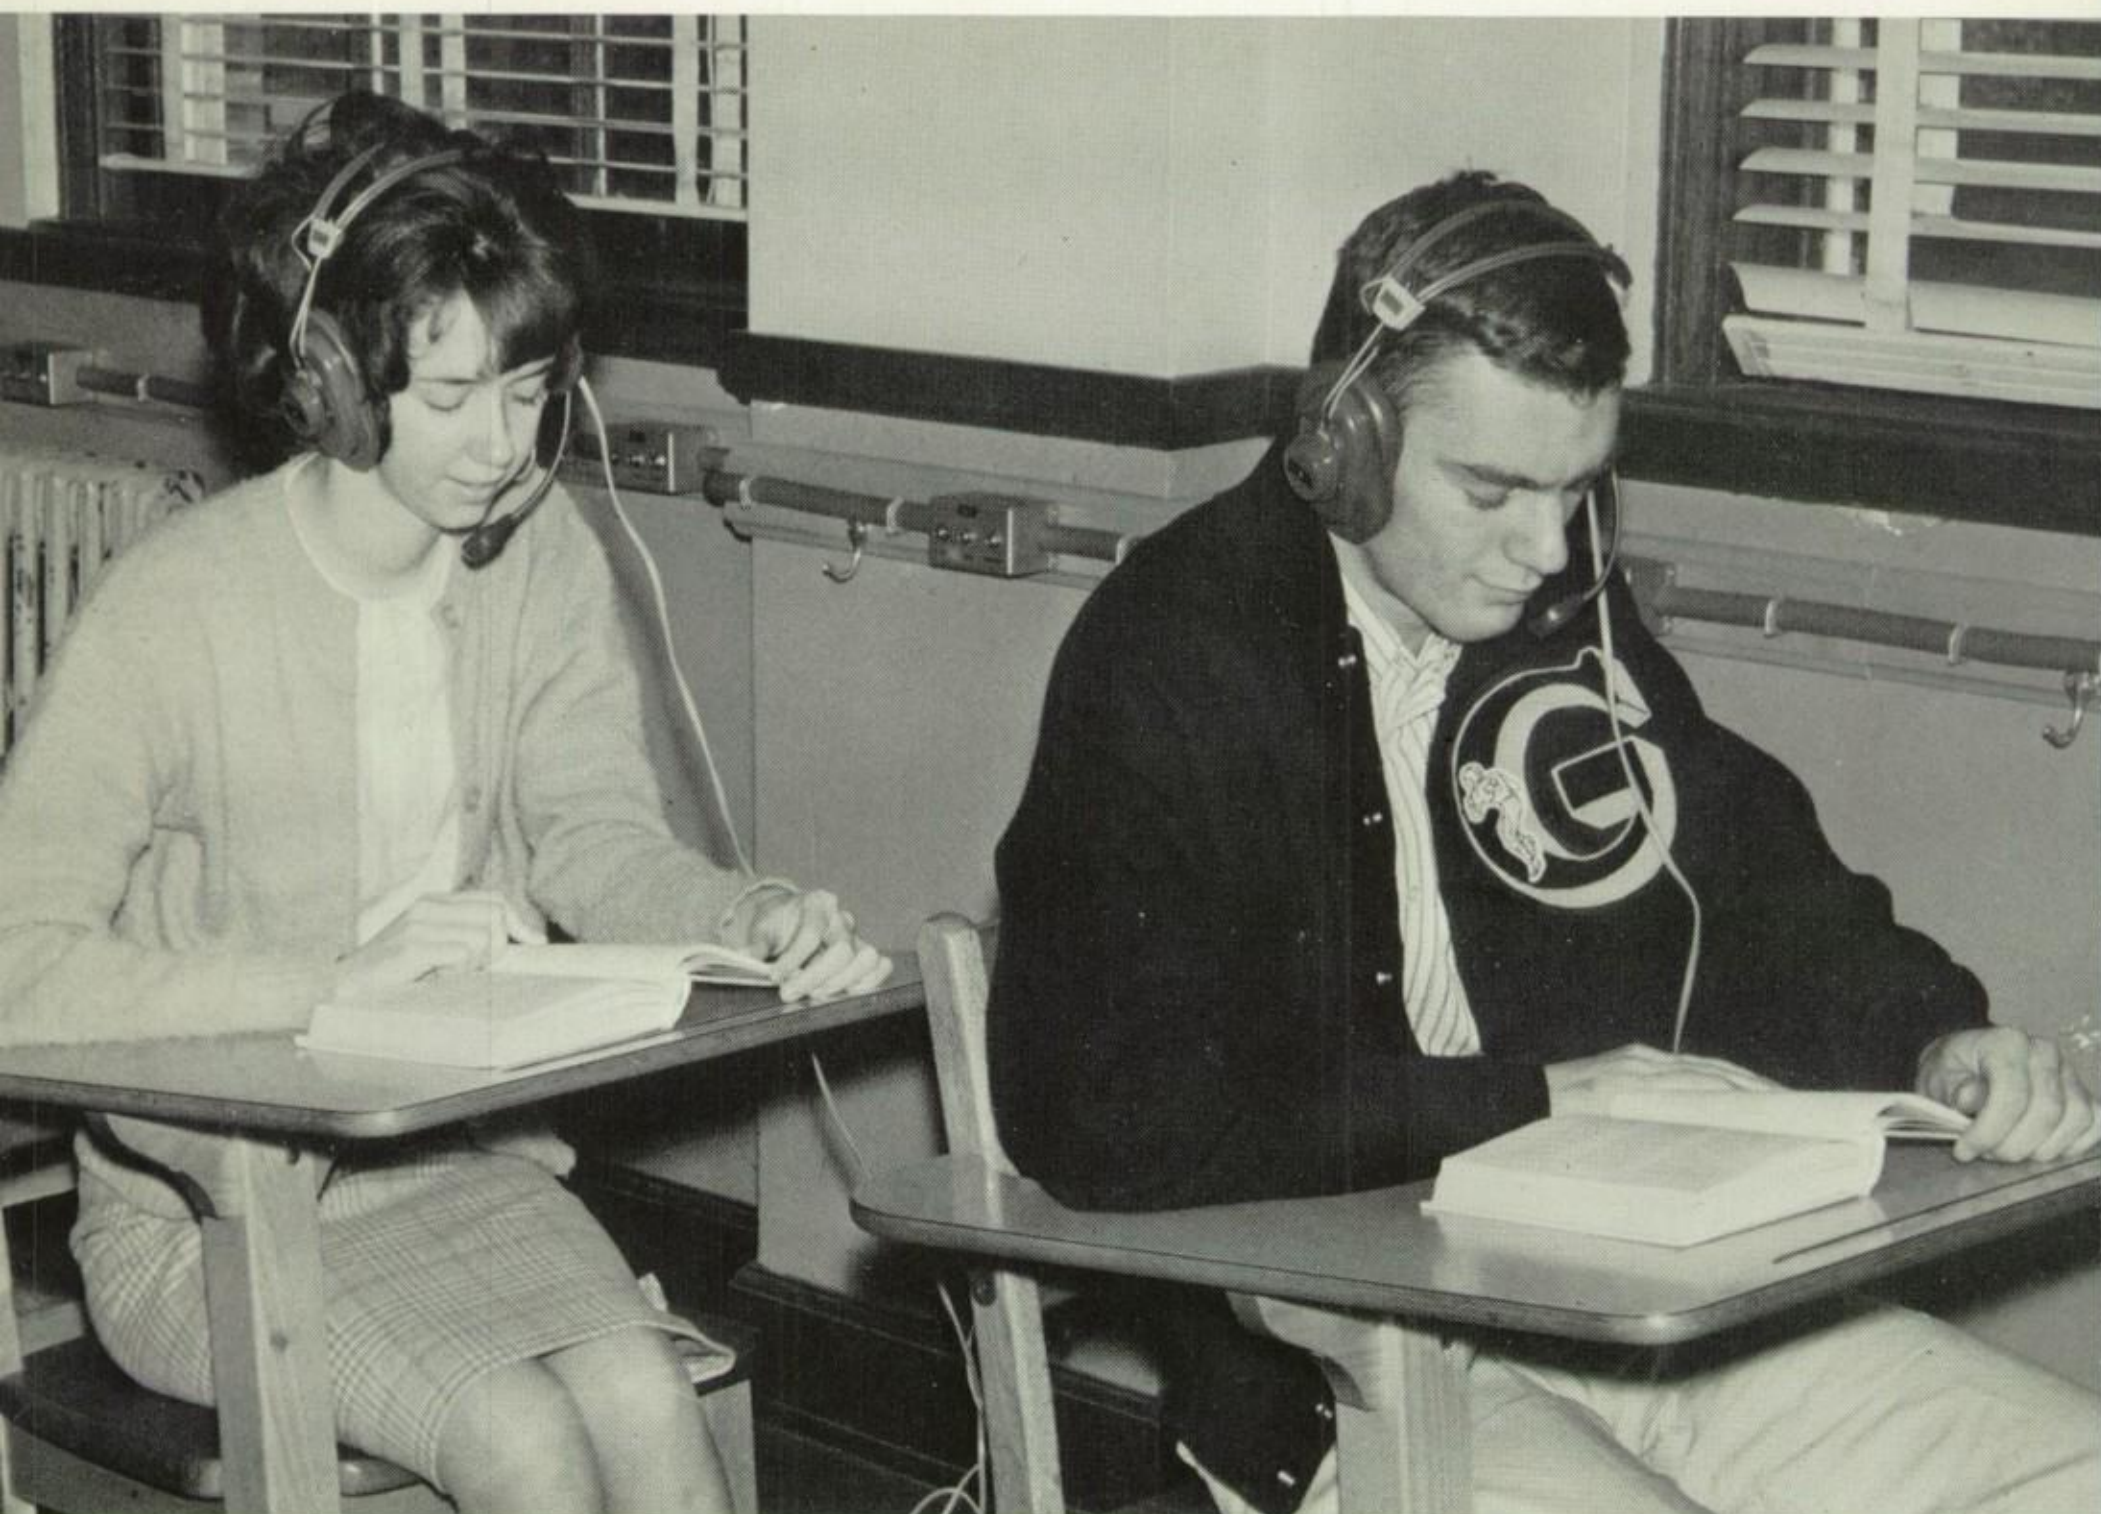

Braving Halloween goblins, Junior Y-Teen member Kay Bowman helps with an annual club project, "trick-or-treating" for UNICEF.

In quiet meditation Lynne Terry joins the nation in prayer for guidance during the time after the assassination of the late President John F. Kennedy.

Thoughts of wedding bells pervade the minds as Student Council members honor Miss Lenna Rose, bride-elect, and Mr. Robert Severs, assistant principal, at a tea.

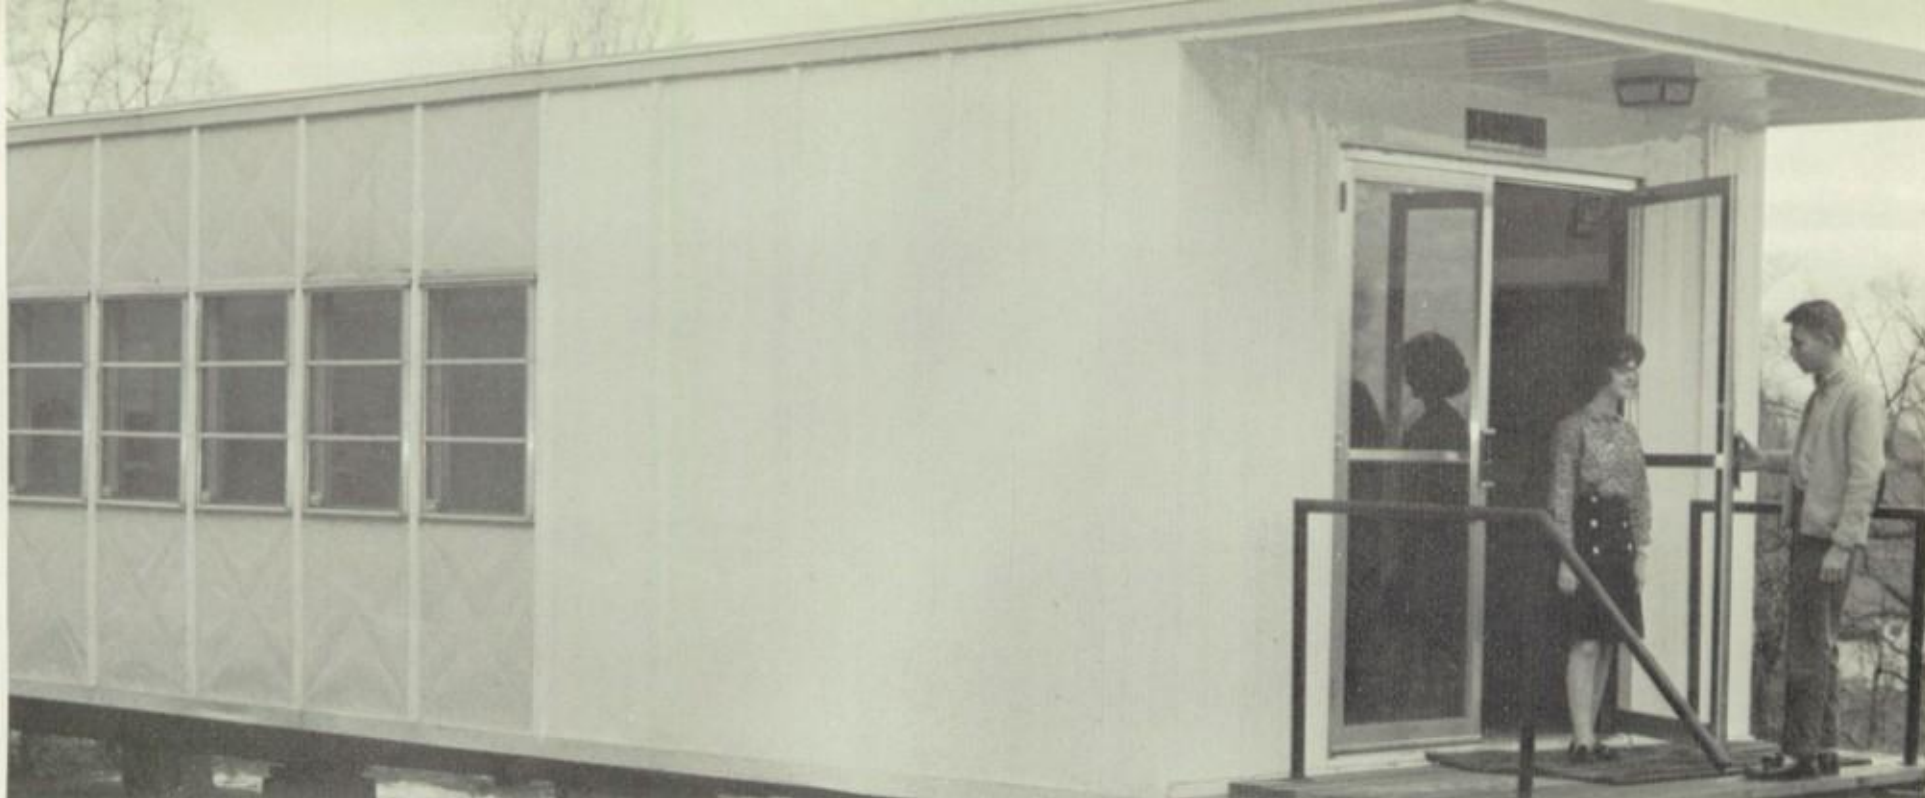

Intrigued by the rhythm and beauty of authentic French conversation, Susan Tuttle and Chester Swan listen closely as recordings of grammar exercises and parallel readings from their textbook are heard through individual earphones in the language laboratory.

Newly installed laboratory helps in language study.

To aid in foreign language vocabulary and proper pronunciation is the purpose of the newly-installed language laboratory. Operated on the basis of a tape recorder, this electronic unit adds variety and interest to daily lessons. Each student is equipped with individual earphones, through which are heard authentic foreign speech, grammar exercises, and parallel readings taped by native countrymen. Concentrating on phonetics and comprehension, the young scholar repeats the words and strives to attain more accurate enunciation. Listening to each individual recitation, the teacher examines the points on which more practice is needed, and she is thereby able to give more individual attention and help.

This teaching technique, along with many other advances in the study of foreign language, is used to increase the effectiveness of classroom procedure. Four languages, French, Spanish, Latin, and German, offer to students an exciting challenge. Adding to the interest, colorful textbooks present stories, cartoons, and songs in the native languages. Through guest speakers, slides, and games, clubs give a chance to explore further the realm of foreign life. By corresponding with teenagers of other countries, a greater tolerance for national differences and customs is developed. Through the understanding of peoples other than their own, students do their part in adding to worldwide brotherhood.

After registering for the school year, Larry Cranfill stops with Jan Royal to admire a mobile classroom unit. Newly installed, the units, equipped with modern conveniences, are used for distributive education and industrial co-operative training.

"I'll take two with mustard and chile," says Steve Thomas hungrily as he moves through the newly opened snack bar. Modern and compact, it became an immediate favorite with students.

With each year come greater strides in accomplishment and progress. Operating under a newly consolidated school system, our faculty was enlarged and the curriculum broadened to include such courses as consumer economics and general science. Lessening over-crowded conditions, modern mobile classrooms were installed on campus. Other steps toward improvement were the opening last fall of a long awaited snack bar for eager students, and the planning and preparing of faculty parking spaces by Key Club members. Adding a bright touch to gymnasium walls was the purchase of 4-A conference banners.

Putting carpentry skills to work, Key Club member Steve Sink helps with a club project, assigning faculty parking spaces.

Tommy Wolfe carefully adds finishing touches to his solid geometry project.

Varied curriculum offers chance to select careers.

Through the works of George Eliot, Albert Einstein, William Shakespeare, and others, intriguing worlds have unfolded before us. An opportunity to select an interesting career was also presented through various elective courses. Hours of study have been spent mastering the fundamentals of algebra or the fascinating events of American history. Early morning has found us preparing assignments or memorizing foreign language vocabularies. Afternoons were devoted to make-up tests, play rehearsals, or details of the yearbook; and nights were spent nodding over books, term papers, or preparing for College Board exams. Some of us arose early each day to attend eight o'clock advanced classes in English, history, and sciences at Reynolds High while others reported to the Industrial Education Center or, as a part of distributive education, to various businesses. We realize the work worthwhile as we view the accomplishments we have acquired.

Wood shavings fly as Brian Foster demonstrates to industrial arts class the proper manner in which mixing bowls should be made. He verifies his knowledge of machinery by the skillful use of the wood lathe, one of the many tools used in this course.

Fascinated by the world of Silas Marner, Carlton Slate, sophomore English student, completes a decorative bulletin board.

Aware that there are numerous complexities of life, Tommy Welborn and Patty Cook, sophomore biology students, eagerly delve into the dissecting of animals. Keeping in mind many facts and scientific methods, these young biologists find the functioning of body organs and the mysteries of living cells to be challenging forces in the quest for knowledge.

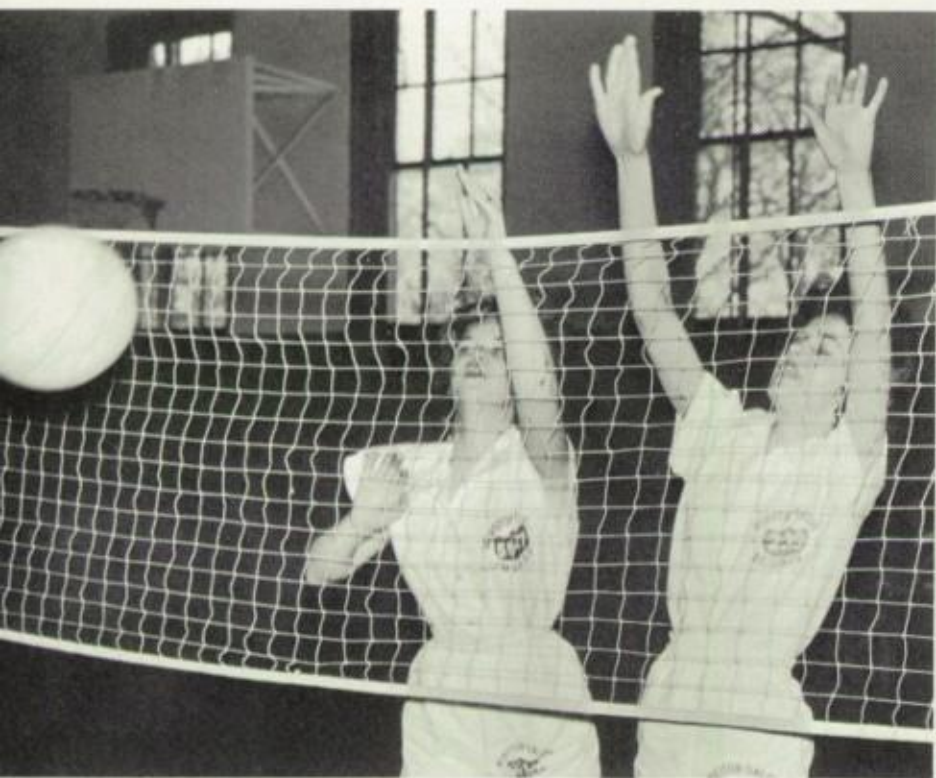

Athletic programs add fellowship and outdoor fun

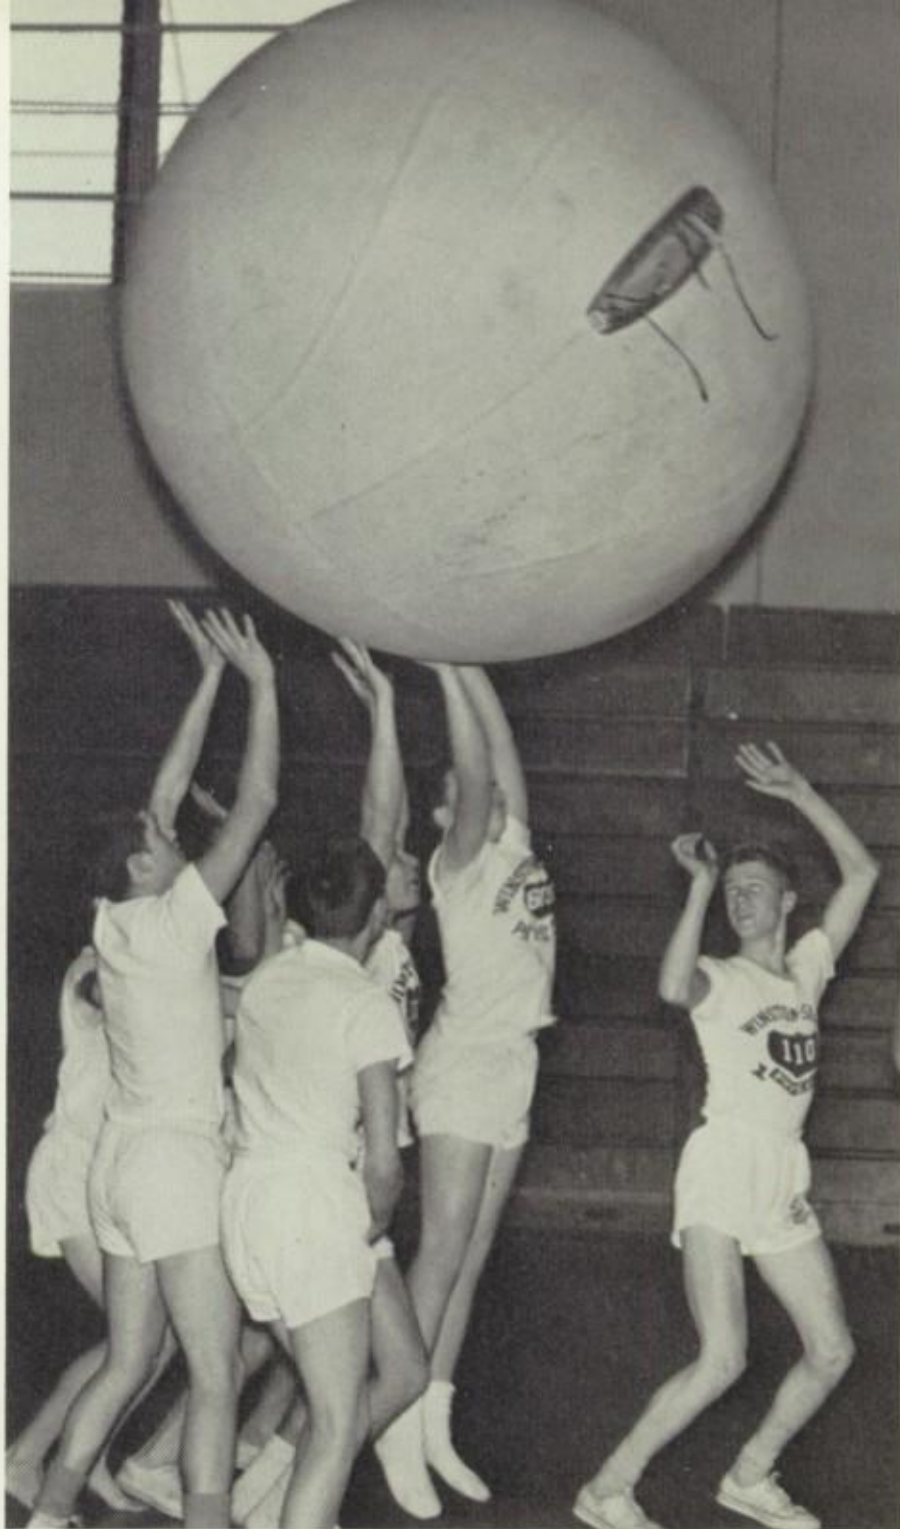

After strenuous drills and daily practice sessions, football players and Dixie Debs enthusiastically join in fun and frolic. They forget the previous hours of toil and hard work in the midst of the light-hearted fellowship prevailing among fellow classmates.

for players and viewers.

Whether an enthusiastic fan or a hard-working participant, each of us finds much needed relaxation and invigorating fun in our athletic program, an integral part of our high school curriculum. We eagerly anticipate each pep rally, where school spirit is shown through rousing yells and spirited band music, and each ballgame, which gives all of us many thrills. In our close bond of support for the Grayhounds, we enjoy the warm fellowship of unity in a common goal.

Excited squeals pierce the air as physical education students Elizabeth King and Carol Danner join in a volleyball game.

As spring showers come without warning, physical education students enjoy a game of volleyball using the giant "Herculean" ball, an aid in developing muscles.

"We want a basket; got to have a basket," resounds through the crowded gymnasium during a basketball game. Students, bubbling with school spirit and enthusiasm, move to the edge of their seats as the clock records the closing seconds and victory draws near.

Hard-working

Armed with facts and strong determination, varsity debaters Toni Vargas and Paulette Todd, affirmative team, and Jack Nance and Susan Styron, negative team, leave for a debate meet.

Striving to do the best possible job, hard-working students found their work worthwhile when honors were presented. Selected for character and citizenship, students were chosen as Civitan and Boys' State representatives. Elected by the senior class, seven junior girls were chosen to serve as marshals at Class Day and Graduation. A number of poems, written by students, were selected to be published in the city and national poetry anthologies; young artists eagerly prepared projects for various art contests; and wood-working students constructed prize-winning entries for judging at the Dixie Classic Fair. Honor point pins for earning 150 service points were awarded, and various scholarships were won by other students for superior individual attainments. Working together as winning teams, the debaters gained city, and district honors; and the Dramatics Department received an "excellent" rating at the Guilford College Drama Festival for outstanding presentations.

Senior Donna Reifsnider, DAR Good Citizen, displays poise and self-confidence as she speaks at a local chapter meeting.

Grayites strive to gain various honors and awards.

Civitan representatives Don Hamrick and Linda Larrymore look over souvenirs of the Little Switzerland Youth Assembly.

Throughout the year, students continued to win various honors and awards. Selected to serve as pages at the Junior-Senior Prom were four deserving sophomore girls with superior academic averages. Three students were named DAR Good Citizen and Junior Rotarians for their extraordinary qualities of citizenship; one outstanding football player was added to the all-conference second team, and two others received honorable mention. Selected for talent in the arts or for scholastic ability, three pupils were chosen to attend the Governor's School. The Journalism Department continued to accomplish and received first-place ratings with its 1962-63 editions of the Gray Light and the Blue and Gold.

Selected for exceptional talent and ability in the field of the arts, Henry Moody, student of dance at the Governor's School, rehearses new routines for a role in a recital.

Johnny Whitlatch, Boys' State Representative, circles the date of the assembly for young leaders, held at Chapel Hill.

After lazy summer days had given way to autumn and thoughts turned to football, a royal throne, surrounded by multi-colored streamers created a memorable picture for students, who, glowing with excitement, arrived at the annual Homecoming Dance. The Yuletide season was highlighted by an old-fashioned Christmas Dance while plans for the Junior-Senior Prom were already beginning to take form. As warm spring days arrived, Oriental decorations enhanced the long-awaited Spring Prom. The hours spent working together created along with these wonderlands a deep fellowship among the students.

Surrounded by lanterns, Susan Styron and Steve Wilson drift through an Oriental wonderland at the Spring Prom.

After a night of anticipation and excitement, Vickey Reaves is crowned Football Queen by escort Randy Reaves.

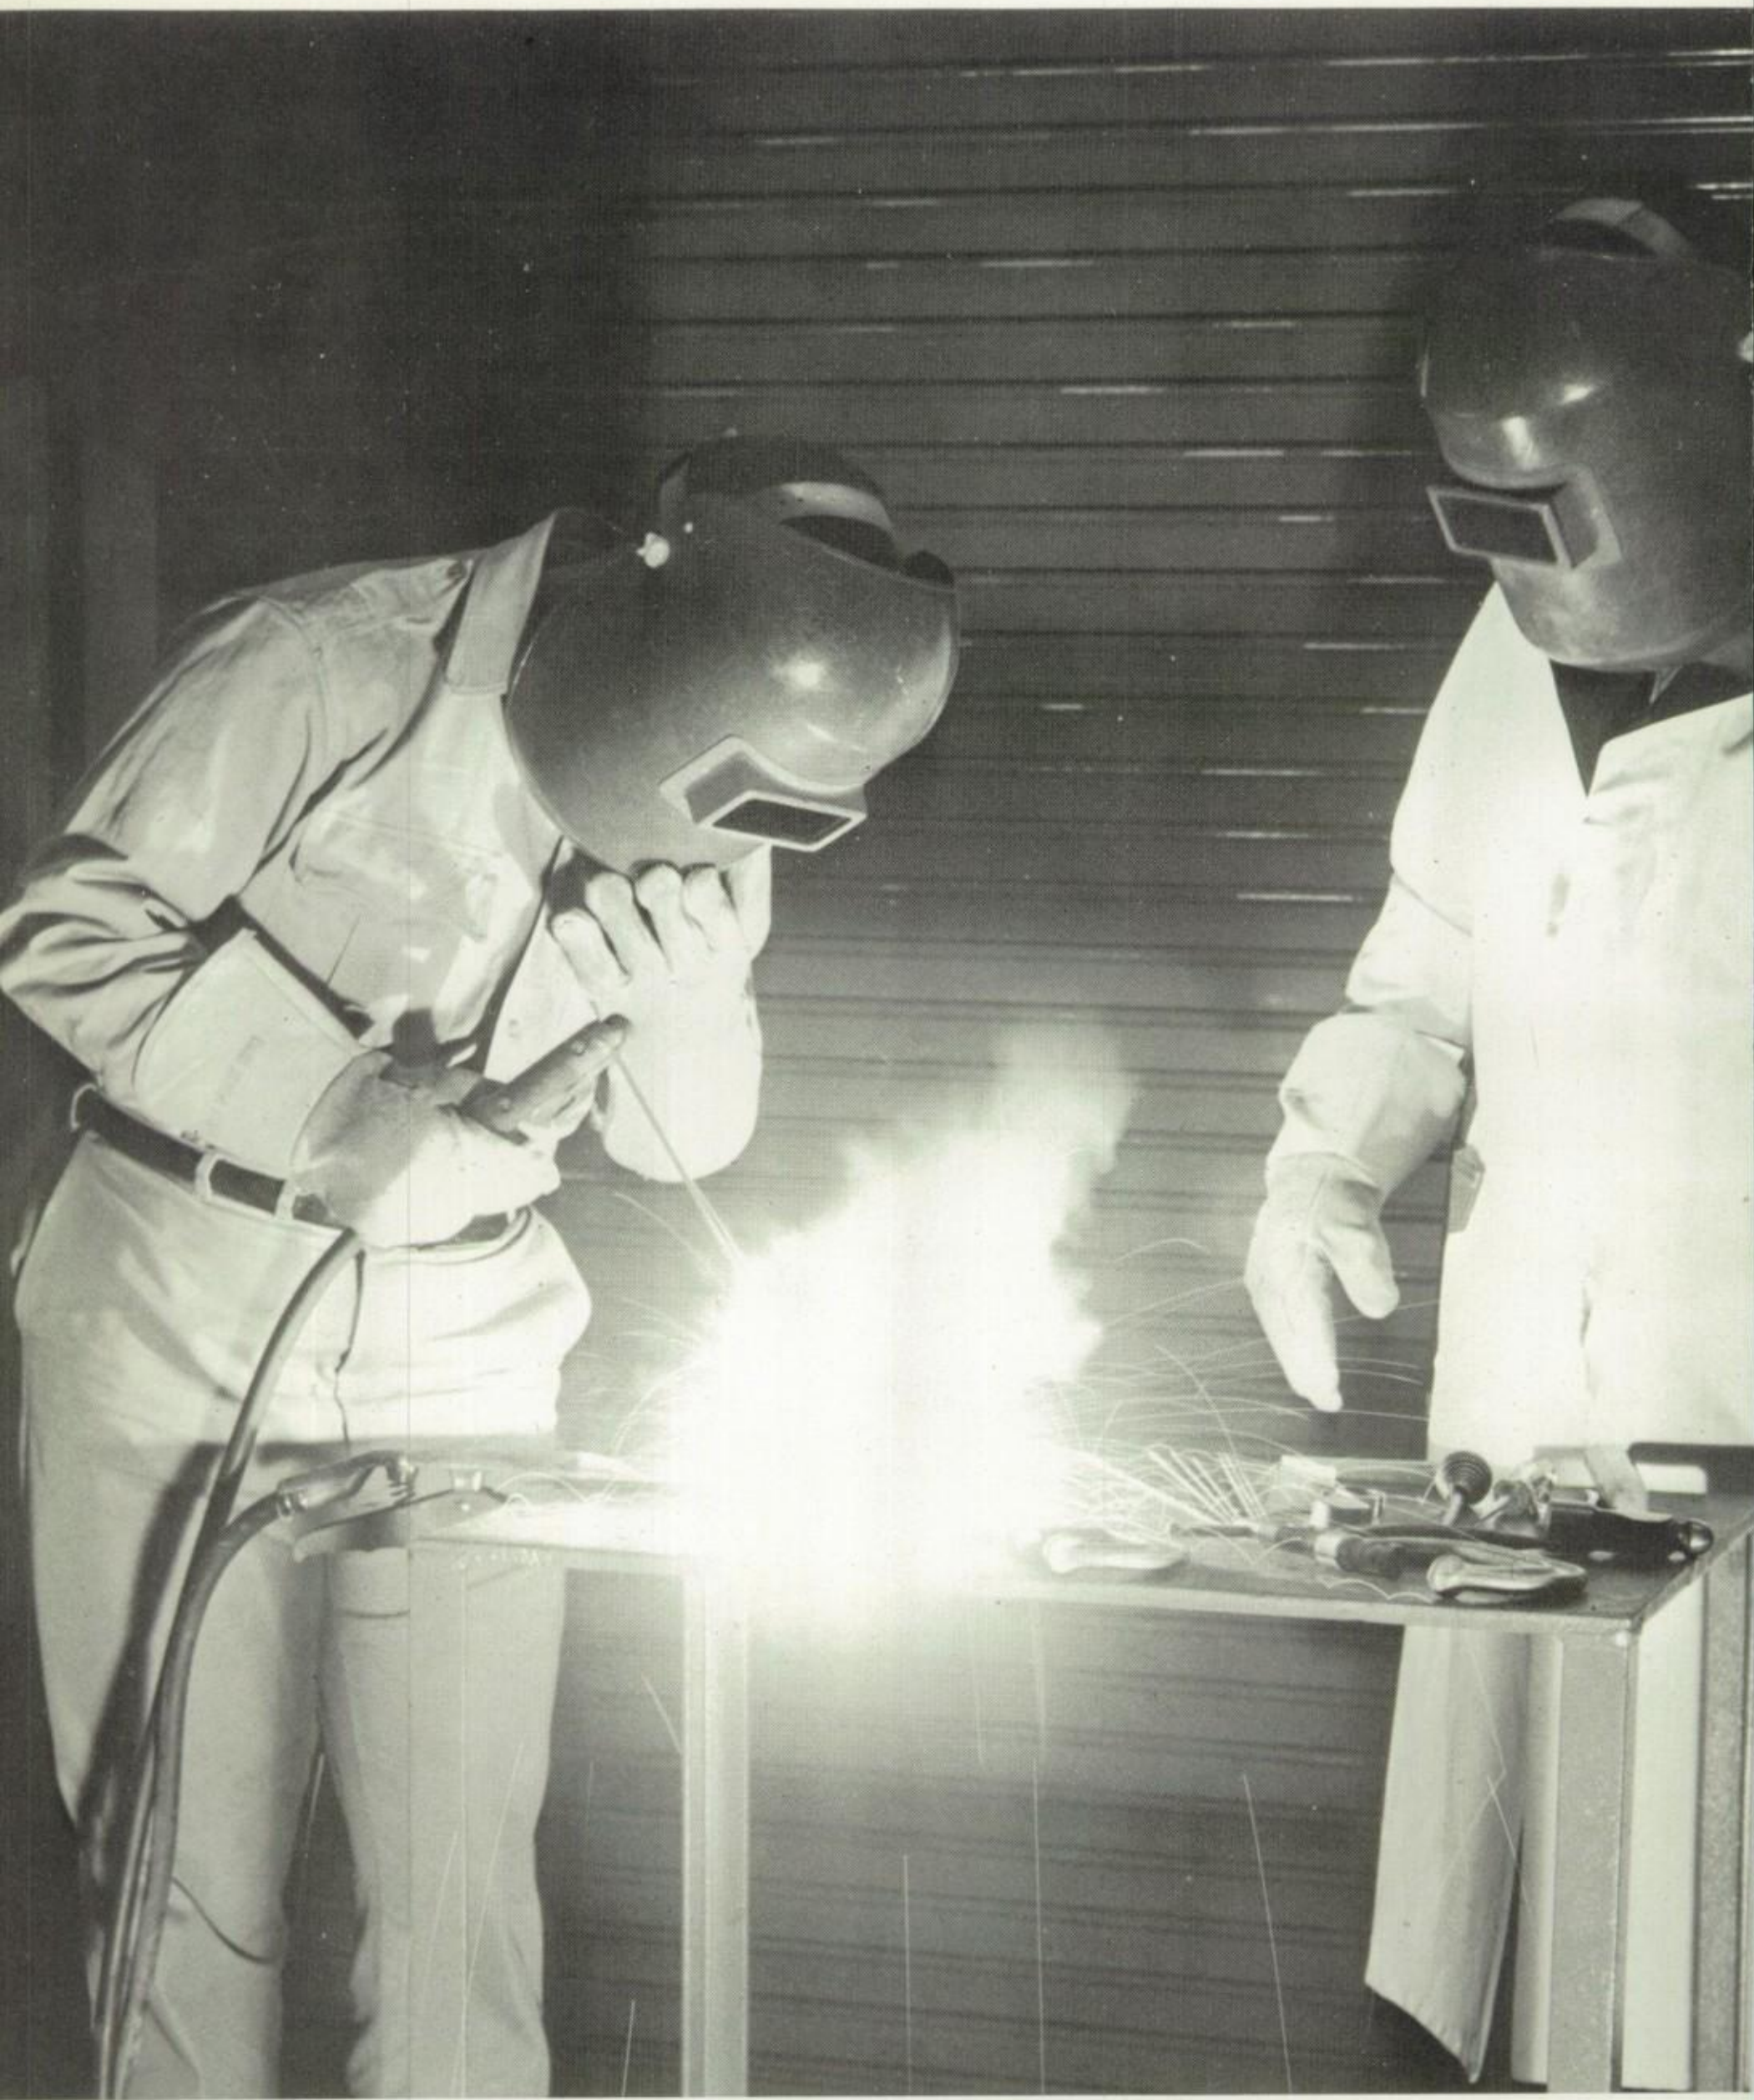

As rousing cheers subside, Alice Jones crowns Carol Leonard, varsity cheerleader, Basketball Homecoming Queen.

Homecoming festivities sparkle with enchantment.

Amid the thrill and enchantment of the long-awaited Junior-Senior, Betsy Chappell and Don Hamrick pause for refreshments.

FACULTY AND CURRICULUM

Helping each individual to realize his fullest potential is the purpose to which our faculty have dedicated themselves. Although facts still must be learned, when they are explained with patience and understanding, they vibrate with meaning, clear our confused minds, and elevate our level of knowledge. Curricular duties are the chief responsibility of our teachers, who take time, however, from busy schedules to be sincere friends. Sponsoring clubs and organizations, supporting athletic events, and chaperoning school-sponsored dances and bus trips are ways in which they help us. Through classroom teaching, guidance and example, they instill within us the love of education which they possess.

Our school leaders aid us by providing

Members of the school administrative staff are Mr. Ned Smith, Associate Superintendent; Mr. Marvin Ward, Superintendent; Mr. Raymond Sarbaugh, Jr., Associate Superintendent, (row one); Mr. Leo Morgan, Assistant Superintendent; Mr. Robert Blevins, Assistant Superintendent; Mr. C. T. Leinback, Comptroller; and Mr. Eugene Johnston, Assistant Superintendent, (row two).

School opened September 4 under the newly consolidated Winston-Salem/Forsyth County School System. Ours is now the second largest educational unit in the state. The twelve-member school board have devoted their time to setting policies for the system, to providing the best possible facilities, and to making equal the standards of education.

Under the direction of the administrative staff, led by Mr. Marvin Ward, superintendent, the school system has continued to progress and expand. A new high school is being constructed in the western section of the county and will be ready for use next fall. Out-growing their previous offices, the staff moved to the recently renovated Granville School Building.

School board members for the consolidated Winston-Salem/Forsyth County system are Mrs. G. C. Young; Dr. Lillian B. Lewis; Mr. Roy Ray; Mrs. Amy Heidebreder; Mr. Whit East, Jr., (row one); Dr. Franklin R. Shirley; Mr. William M. Knott, Jr.; Mr. Clyde G. Barber, Jr.; Mr. Richard Erwin; Mr. Carl Russell; and Mr. Boyd Idol, (row two). Mrs. C. G. Grubbs was not present when the picture was made.

and P.T.A. officers

After conferring about plans for future P.T.A. programs, Mr. John Heitman, president; Mrs. O. C. Perryman, secretary; and Mr. William Taylor, treasurer, pause to make preparations for the P.T.A. convention, at which state education leaders gather to exchange suggestions.

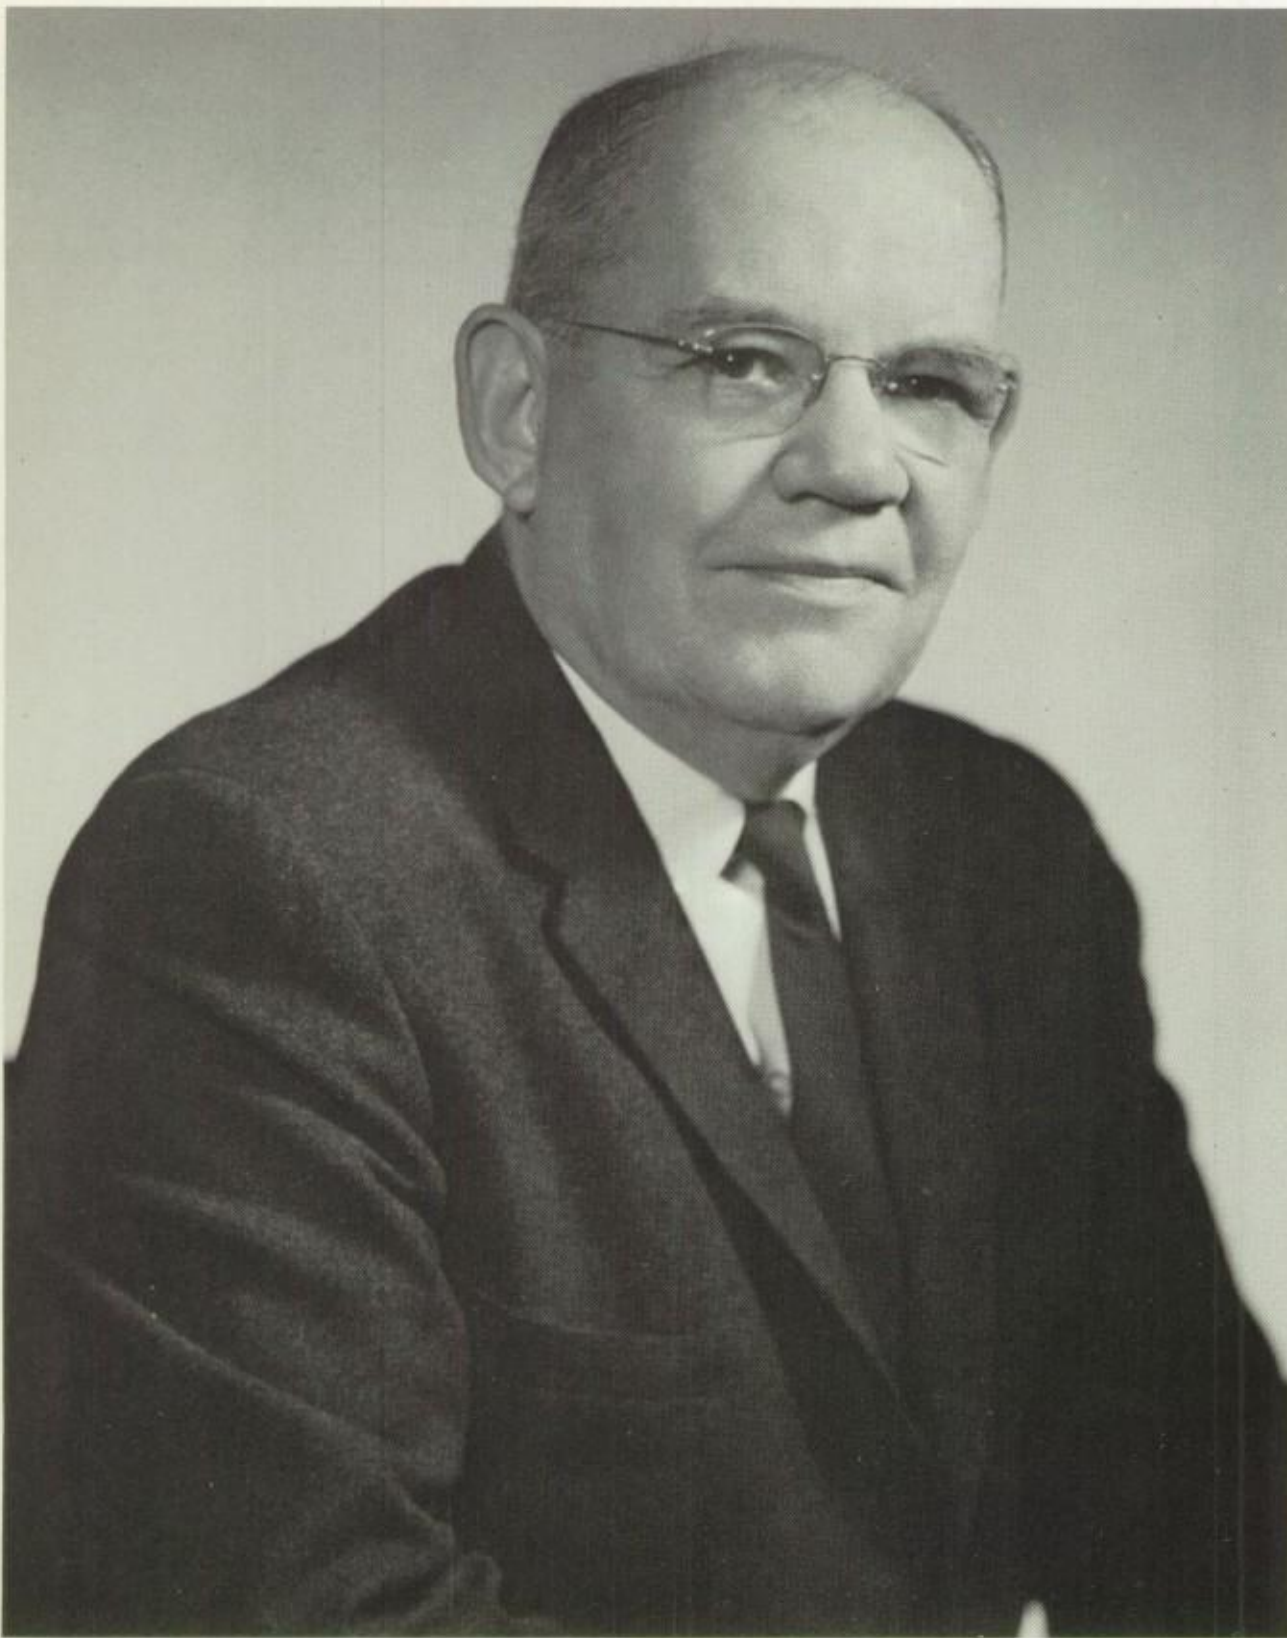

Service Club officers are Mrs. Alleene Cockerham, secretary; Mrs. Fred C. Denny, treasurer, (row one); Mr. Charlie Noell, president; and Mr. Charles Bunn, vice-president, (row two).

Miss Ruth Holton, secretary, and Kay Bowman, student reporter for the Gray Light, discuss goals and purposes of the P.T.A.

Interested parents and faculty members met regularly at P.T.A. and Service Club meetings during the year to promote better understanding. To bring students, parents, and teachers into a realm of warm fellowship and understanding was the goal of each organization. The P.T.A. planned programs, and the Service Club raised funds for equipment.

Because of his sincerity,
Mr. Woodward is held in the highest admiration
by students and faculty.

Behind the success and progress of our school, there stands one who has given unselfishly of his time and efforts, its principal, Mr. J. A. Woodward. Although his job is demanding, he willingly listens to our personal problems. Always having faith in the younger generation, he supports and promotes all school organizations. Because of his interest we have received new equipment and the latest teaching aids. Also, the crowded conditions of our school have been relieved with the addition of two new mobile units.

Mr. J. A. Woodward, Principal

Overflowing with questions relating to future plans, students turn to the assistance of Mr. Woodward, as well as the school's guidance director. Our principal's influence as a counselor has merited the trust and confidence placed in him. In their search for knowledge, students anticipate his word of encouragement and never hesitate to seek his advice. Both students and teachers rely on the co-operation he so generously gives. Because of his concern for our welfare the curriculum has been broadened to include two new subjects, psychology and industrial co-operative training.

Always willing to help with individual plans, Mr. J. A. Woodward, principal, talks with senior Frances Witherington about requirements of various colleges.

MR. ROBERT SEVERS
A.B., M.A.

Energy, enthusiasm, and school spirit characterize the personality of Mr. Severs, assistant principal, who displays an interest in the individual needs of each student.

MR. DANIEL MOTLEY
A.B., M.Ed.

Earnest friend and sincere adviser, Mr. Motley, guidance director, willingly helps all students who seek aid in preparing for college careers or future vocations.

MISS RUTH HOLTON
SECRETARY

With amazing efficiency and accuracy, Miss Holton, a valuable asset to the office personnel, expertly types and files all school records and necessary reports.

MR. TOM CASH
A.B., B.S., M.Ed.

Besides teaching Algebra I and II, and Plane Geometry, Mr. Cash, athletic director, also supervises the scheduling of all sports events and is in charge of awards day.

MISS HELEN BICKLEY
A.B., B.S.L.S.

Knowledge of pertinent affairs, modern authors, and classical literature enables Miss Bickley, librarian, to aid students in selecting material for parallel reading.

MRS. RUBY BROOKS
DIETITIAN

Tantalizing, yet nutritious and well-balanced, the delicious lunches prepared by Mrs. Brooks, dietitian, satisfy the ravenous appetites of hungry students.

Mr. Wayne Wolff

Seniors pay tribute to Mr. Wayne Wolff for service.

Mr. Wayne Wolff's three years at Gray High School have been an inspiration to all. Whether instructing in the classroom or coaching the football and basketball teams, he has stimulated us to become more mature adults. His radiant personality and original sense of humor have captivated our hearts. Being impressed by his congeniality, the Senior Class of 1964 dedicates the Blue and Gold to Mr. Wolff in appreciation for his service. We are indebted to our comrade for motivating us to seek a rewarding future. In his two-fold career at our school, he has devoted many hours to boys' sports. He is head basketball coach and line coach for football.

By serving us in beneficial

Having won an athletic scholarship to Wake Forest College, Mr. Wolff acquired many other honors. Playing tackle, he was chosen co-captain his senior year and also participated in the Blue-Gray game in Montgomery, Alabama. He was also selected for the Atlantic Coast Conference and the All-North-Carolina-State teams. He made the United Press International All-American team and led the ACC for two years in punting. His chance for professional football came when he was drafted by the Cleveland Browns and Buffalo Bills. He completed a year with the latter before coming to Gray. Here he has taught science and mathematics.

Tommy Dixon, varsity basketball player, listens carefully to Mr. Wayne Wolff, head basketball coach, who gives technical pointers about handling the ball.

MRS. CARRIE M. ALLGOOD
A.B., M.A.

Leisure-time activities, including sewing skills such as needlepoint, provide welcome hours of relaxation for Mrs. Allgood, who teaches French and Spanish and serves as sponsor of the French Club and the sophomore class.

MR. BRUCE AYSCUE
A.B., M.A.T.

Sponsor of the Key Club, Mr. Ayscue, who teaches junior and sophomore English, is an active participant in and often originator of the club's numerous projects, which prove beneficial to the school in many ways.

MRS. FRANCES BRUCE
B.S., M.S.

Preparing students for the responsibilities of maintaining future homes of their own, Mrs. Bruce, home economics director, includes a cooking class in her course of study, which consists of helpful domestic training.

MISS MARY CARLTON
A.B.

Filled with intriguing ideas, Miss Carlton, teacher of sophomore and junior English, assists the cheerleaders in selecting designs for new uniforms, planning pep-rallies, and encouraging support from the student body.

MRS. BARBARA COBLE
B.S., M.A.

Souvenirs of an exciting European tour recall memories of a thrilling adventure experienced by Mrs. Coble, instructor of distributive education and sponsor of the D.E. Club, an organization training future businessmen.

Concentrating on the precise proportion of design, mechanical drawing student Ronnie Frye perfects the blueprints of his construction plans.

MRS. LINDA COMBS
B.A.

Adding youthful vitality and enthusiasm to the classroom, Mrs. Combs, who teaches sophomore and junior English and co-sponsors the cheerleaders, is a favorite with students because of her friendly and genial personality.

Attempting to aid us in making plans for the future, our

MR. CHARLES COOPER
A.B.

An avid sportsman, Mr. Cooper, who instructs the industrial co-operative training class, enjoys spending weekends and holidays with his pet horses, which he expertly rides and trains for competing in horseshows.

MRS. ELOISE CURLEE
A.B., B.M.

With a warm smile and true graciousness, Mrs. Curlee, who teaches Latin and German and serves as sponsor of the two clubs, willingly devotes time and energy in developing a valuable and beneficial Student Organization.

MRS. BERTHA FERNANDEZ
A.B.

Sponsor of the Spanish Club, Mrs. Fernandez, who is a native Cuban, furnishes students with first-hand knowledge of the language and the customs of the Spanish speaking people as she teaches classes of Spanish I and II.

MRS. CLARA FIELD
A.B., B.M.

Exemplifying a love of nature, Mrs. Field, who teaches biology and sponsors the Health Careers Club, imparts into the minds of inquiring students an extensive store of knowledge about the habits of animal and plant life.

MISS DAISY LEE GLASGOW
A.B., M.A.

Arranging schedules of all students and sponsoring the National Honor Society are among the many helpful services rendered to the school by Miss Glasgow, who also briefs pupils on current events and teaches American History.

MISS SUSAN GROCE
B.S.

Roots, radicals, and reciprocals are frequently used terms employed by Miss Groce, sponsor of the Junior Y-Teen Club, as she helps students to find a solution for algebraic equations and teaches Commercial Arithmetic.

instructors offer suggestions about various careers.

MR. FOSTER HAYES
B.S.

As teacher of General Shop I and II, Mr. Hayes skillfully employs his own talents in woodworking to train young men to develop and utilize their abilities in fashioning such handcrafts as lamps, tables, and bookcases.

MRS. MARY K. HUTCHISON
A.B.

Always placing the welfare of her students first, Mrs. Hutchison, head of the Mathematics Department and teacher of Algebra II, Solid Geometry, and Advanced Mathematics, finds pleasure in an arrangement of white roses.

D.E. student Judy Hester carefully files cards as a part of her job with the Retail Merchants Credit Bureau.

MR. NELSON JESSUP
B.S.

Using compasses, protractors, and slide rules, Mr. Jessup, who teaches geometry and Algebra I and II, diligently prepares assignments which will aid students in understanding the necessary fundamentals of mathematics.

MR. JACK KIRSTEIN
B.S., M.A.

Inquisitive students find a helpful and well-informed friend in Mr. Kirstein, who teaches chemistry, general science and biology, and is always willing to solve any problems and answer all questions concerning science.

MR. JOHN LaCAVA
B.M., M.A.

Talented in music, Mr. LaCava, who expertly conducts the student chorus, assists the majorettes and also directs the school band, which provides appropriate and enjoyable selections for chapel programs and athletic events.

Teachers enjoy such hobbies as fishing, music, and reading.

As part of his classwork in Algebra II, Wayne Everhart graphs on the black-board a higher degree equation.

MRS. SUZANNE LINDER
B.A., M.A.

"Practice makes perfect" is the motto of Mrs. Linder, American History teacher, as she drills the Dixie Debs for precision while they diligently rehearse for performances to be given at halftime during football games.

MISS BOBBEE LINVILLE
B.A., M.F.A.

Creative and imaginative, Miss Linville, who instructs classes of Art I, II, III, and IV, demonstrates her artistic ability in many ways, such as the sculpturing of a clay reproduction of the head of a prehistoric man.

MRS. JANET MACKIE
B.A.

Realizing the necessity of being familiar with the geography of the United States, Mrs. Mackie, teacher of American History, explains to her students the importance of being able to recognize outstanding places on a map.

As a part of her study of cooking skills and nutrition learned in home economics, Sharon White places a sheet of ice-box cookies into the oven.

Faculty members also sponsor clubs and chaperon activities.

MISS LYNN McBRIDE
B.S.

Expertly managing the school store, Miss McBride, head of the Commercial Department and teacher of bookkeeping, shorthand, and typing, makes certain that all necessary supplies are made readily available to students.

MRS. PENNY McJUNKIN
A.B., M.A.

Through the resources of file cards and informative manuals, Mrs. McJunkin, sponsor of the Masque and Gavel and teacher of sophomore and junior English and public speaking, ably coaches varsity debaters on current topics.

MR. PHILLIP MORRIS
B.S.

Recognizing the importance of mental and physical development, Mr. Morris, who instructs classes of driving and serves as head coach of the varsity baseball team, emphasizes sportsmanlike conduct in athletic events.

Iris Baker waits patiently as theatrical make-up is applied in order to heighten her facial features for her role in the play, "If a Man Answers."

MR. CARL MOTSINGER
B.S.

Patterns of human behavior and causes of mental disturbances are only two of the topics studied by the psychology classes under the direction of Mr. Motsinger, coach of junior varsity football, baseball, and basketball.

Cheering at pep rallies and attending other sports functions,

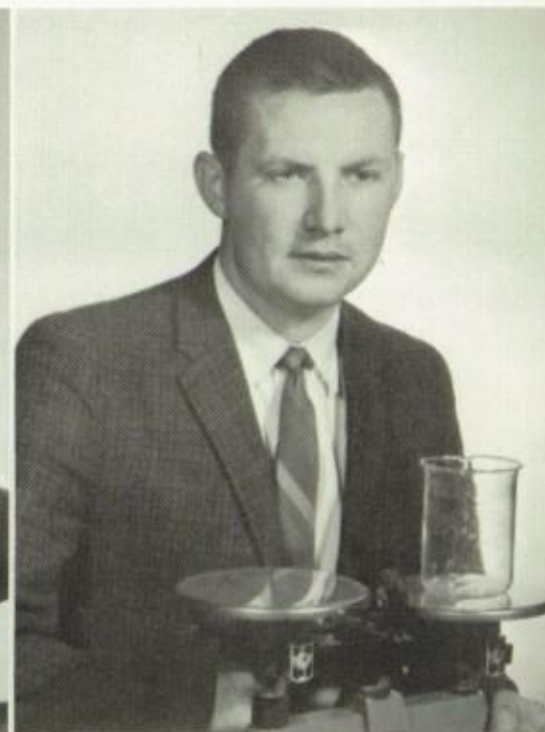

MISS MARY ALICE MUNN
B.S.

Development of skill and teamwork through hours of practice is stressed by Miss Munn, director of physical education and sponsor of the G.A.A., as she coaches girls for the keen competition found in varsity sports.

MISS RETA PEOPLES
B.A.

Adjusting a spotlight to the desired position, Miss Peoples, sponsor of the Thespians and the Dramateers and teacher of sophomore English, eagerly prepares for the forthcoming presentation of the play "If a Man Answers."

MR. WILLIAM REED
A.B.

Noted for his quick wit and sense of humor, Mr. Reed, teacher of chemistry and physics and sponsor of the Junior Engineers Club, has endeared himself to both faculty and students by his constant willingness to assist.

MR. BOBBY ROBINSON
B.S.

Safety first is always emphasized by Mr. Robinson, defensive back coach of the varsity football team, as he teaches students the importance of obeying all traffic rules and accepting the responsibilities of driving.

MRS. LAVENIA ROBINSON
B.S.

Acquainting sophomores with the responsibilities of high school work, including the study of Julius Caesar, Mrs. Robinson, teacher of sophomore and senior English, also instructs seniors in ancient English literature and in grammar.

MRS. VIRGINIA SAMS
B.S.

Though the duties of preparing and correcting assignments for junior and senior English classes call for many hours of work, Mrs. Sams freely gives time from a busy schedule to sponsor the Future Teachers of America.

the faculty enthusiastically support the athletic program.

MRS. OPHELIA SHERRILL
ASSISTANT SECRETARY

Adept in the performance of office duties, Mrs. Sherrill, assistant secretary, eases the responsibilities of the library staff and the school personnel as she records the attendance of students taking accelerated courses.

MISS MOSELLE STEPHENSON
A.B.

Devotion to teaching and affection for animals characterize the personality of Miss Stephenson, head of the English Department, who is advisor for the Gray Light and the Blue and Gold and sponsor of Quill and Scroll.

Physics student Jerry Minor makes adjustments on an oscilloscope he made as a scientific project during the year.

Discussing the customs of Latin American countries, Donna Montgomery admires castanets shown to her by her Spanish teacher, Mrs. Bertha Fernandez.

MRS. MILLISON TAYLOR
B.S.

With a touch of creativity and imagination, Mrs. Taylor, who teaches Commercial Arithmetic and consumer economics, demonstrates how ordinary objects can be transformed into attractive containers for household use.

Our instructors advise and direct us as we make decisions.

In her study of anatomy, Advanced Placement Biology student Toni Vargas examines the skeleton of a cat.

MRS. EDITH TEAGUE
B.S.

Displaying consideration and concern for students, Mrs. Teague, who teaches typing, shorthand, and commercial economics, aids pupils, as well as the faculty, by keeping accurate records of serial numbers and locker owners.

MR. HOMER THOMPSON
A.B., M.A.

Leading the team to victories in sportsmanship, as well as in athletics, Mr. Thompson, who serves as head coach of the varsity football team and instructor of physical education, exemplifies both skill and self-control.

MR. E. E. TODD, JR.
A.B.

Affectionately nicknamed "Colonel," Mr. Todd, who instructs Mechanical Drawing I and II, is considered the school handy-man because of his industry and ingenuity in the skilled mending of equipment needing repair.

In public speaking class Billy Shaw uses a tape recorder to examine objectively the fluctuation, quality, and enunciation of his voice.

Faculty members greatly influence our attitude in school.

MRS. MARTHA WALKER
A.B., M.A.

Commencement exercises hold much excitement, not only for seniors and their families, but also for Mrs. Walker, English teacher, whose duties as chief sponsor of the senior class demand many weeks of busy preparation.

MISS MARY WIESE
B.S.S.A., M.A.

Conscientious in her task of explaining the basic fundamentals of bookkeeping, typing, and Business English, Miss Wiese uses her spare time for relaxation to good advantage as she completes the knitting of a sweater.

MR. WAYNE WOLFF
B.S.

Creating an atmosphere conducive to the study of biology, Mr. Wolff, who serves as head coach of varsity basketball, stimulates the interest and enthusiasm of students by clear explanations of scientific facts and principles.

Students and faculty members eagerly return to school for another year after spending an exciting summer filled with beach vacations, travel, and work.

After the bewilderment of high school registration had ceased, wide-eyed, eager sophomores began to get into the swing of high school life. With sincere concern, upperclassmen offered much needed and appreciated help to the confused tenth-graders. Seniors and juniors aided by helping them with locker combinations and room numbers and by giving other necessary information relative to the new type of schooling facing them.

Changes were made, not only for the sophomores, but also for the juniors and seniors. Surpassing that of last year, the school enrollment reached and exceeded the thousand mark. There were new faces to learn and names to remember, along with new responsibilities that came with moving one more step up the ladder toward graduation. With the guidance and support of the faculty members, students began a new and stimulating year.

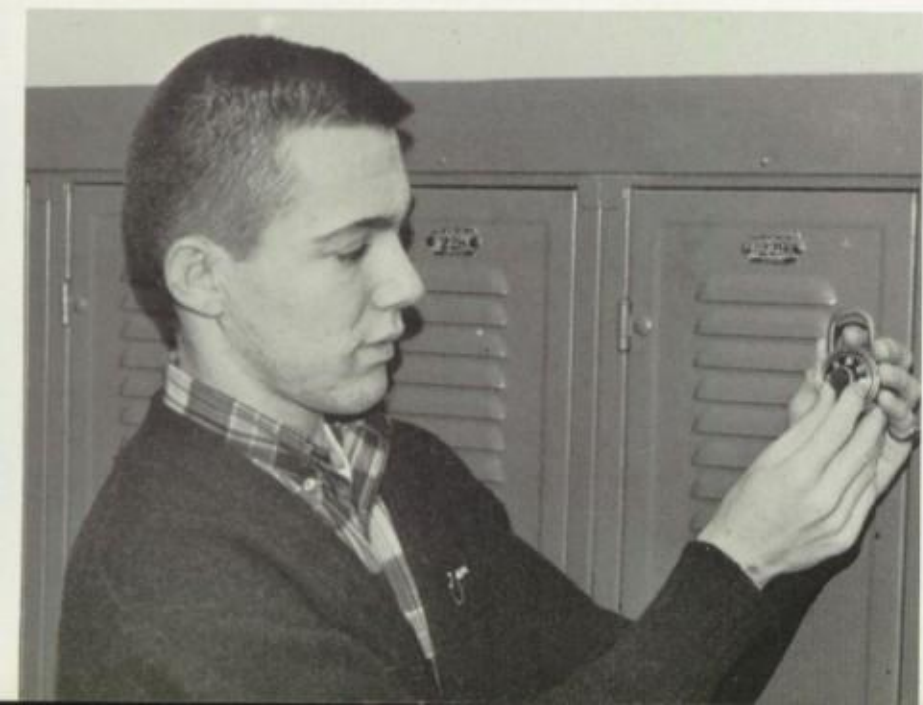

Mirth of summer lingers as students, sun tanned and gay, talk about amusing vacation experiences while they register for the new school term.

To determine the exact size of each of her mathematics classes, Mrs. Mary Hutchison breaks up class tickets and places them on a stand.

Attending to important details at the beginning of a new school year, Mike Atwood checks the combination of his lock.

Typical of the eager anticipation of underclassmen, sophomore Joyce Helms curiously peers into the halls of her new school.

Cleaning up at the end of the day, Mr. William Pratt and Mr. John Caesar empty classroom baskets into a large bin.

Mrs. Nannie Meeks and Mrs. Earline Sanders busily polish windows as a part of keeping the building clean.

Serving in an inconspicuous capacity, the custodians keep our school clean.

What should we do without our custodians and cooks? We should be sitting in dusty chairs and bringing our lunches to school! Janitors and maids keep the school looking clean and also do odd jobs for both teachers and students. The cafeteria staff, who serve well-balanced meals, help to keep the students in top condition for learning and for athletic contests.

Each day striving to prepare and serve nutritious, appetizing lunches for a hungry student body are R. Talbert, C. Evans, E. Funches, B. Wofford, T. Medders, R. Brooks, I. Harper, G. Haag, (row one); A. Talbert, D. Marsh, and M. Shamel, (row two).

Mrs. Frances Bruce prepares coffee for the breakfast that the Home Economics Department gave to the faculty members.

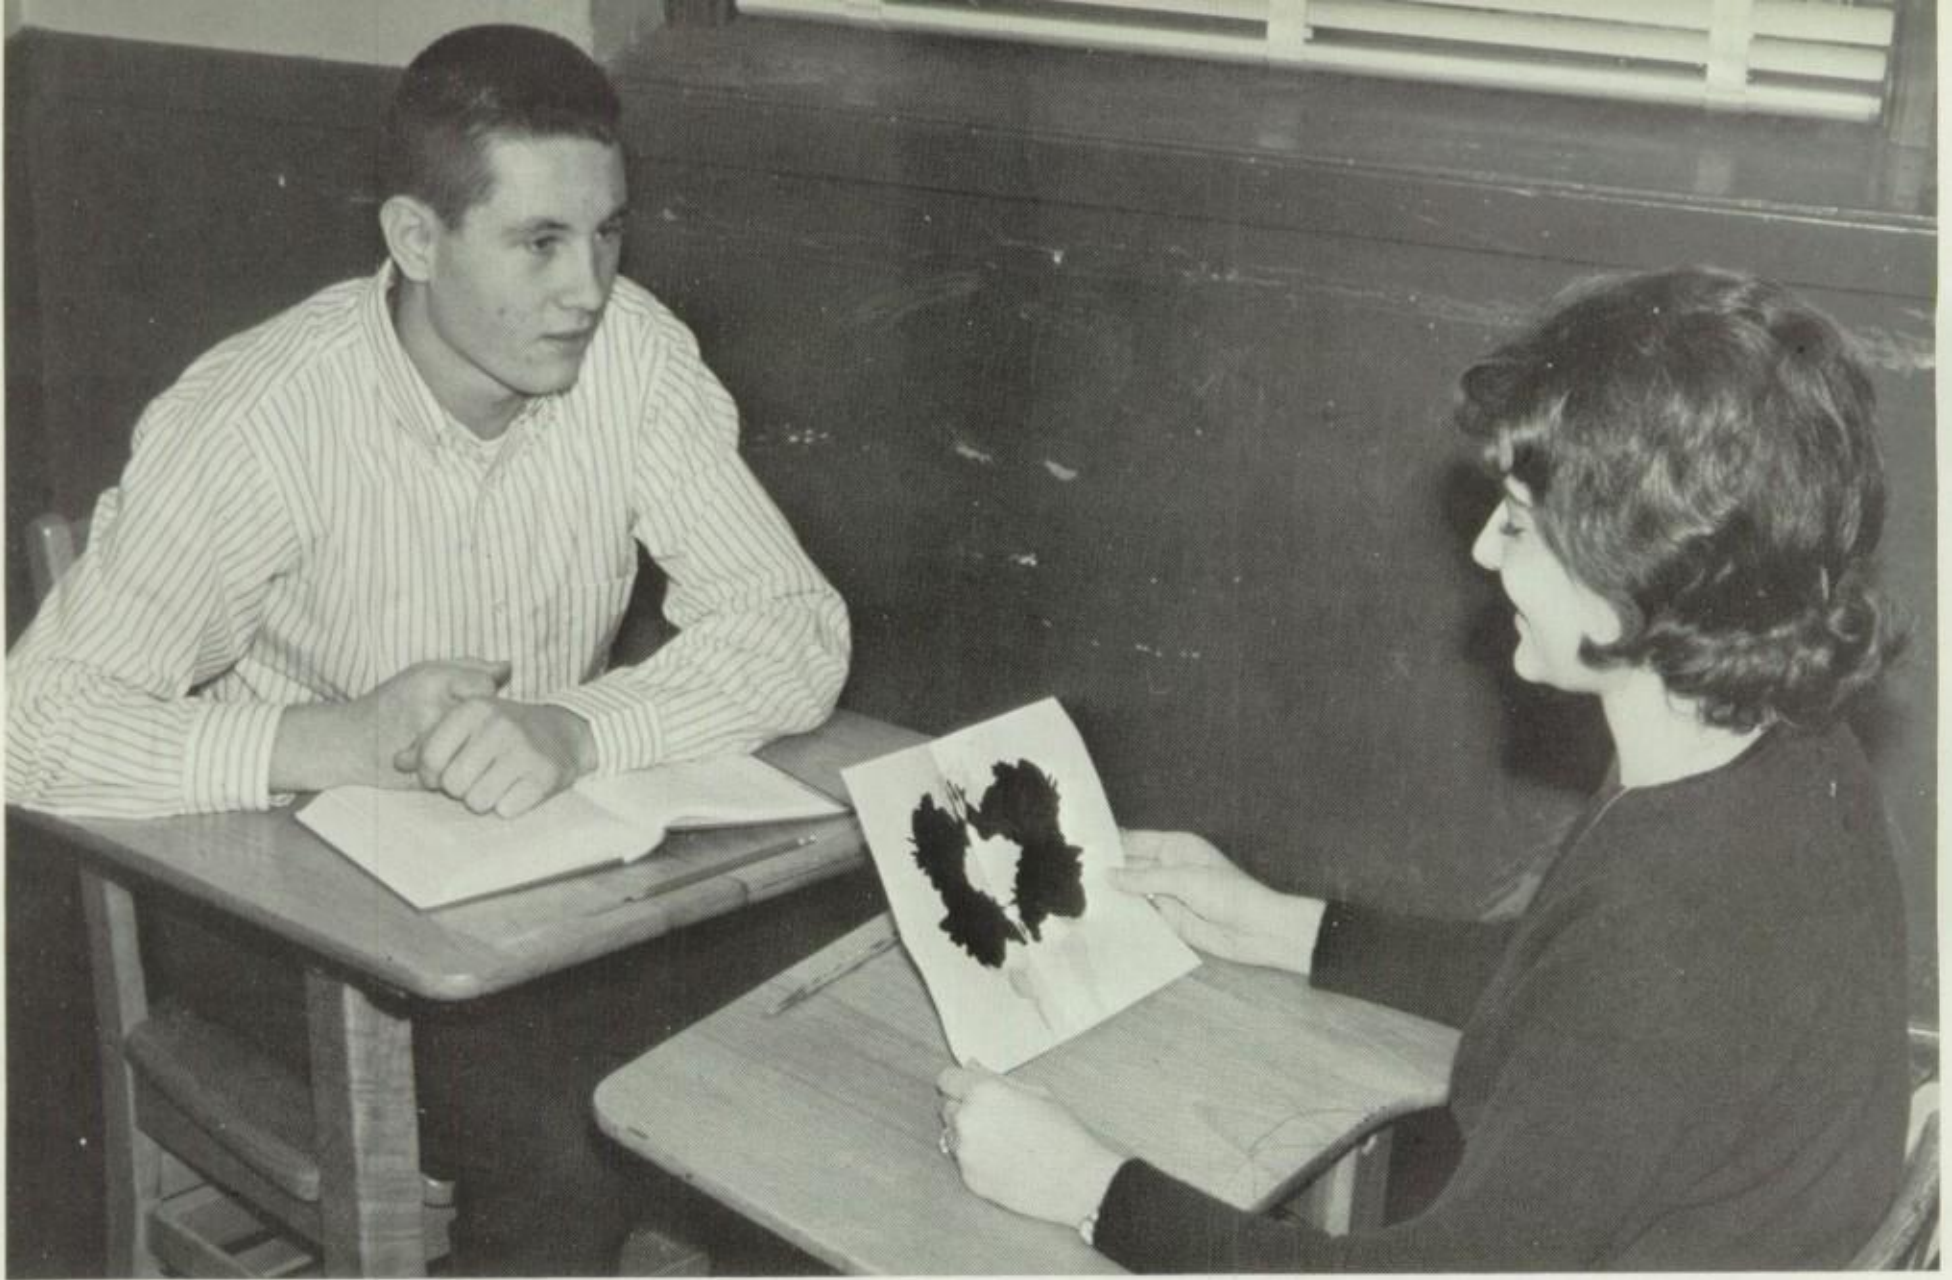

Mr. Bobby Robinson and Johnny Pfaff talk about driving laws.

Learning the skills of a licensed driver, students practice safety regulations.

Even with all the basketball and football games, clubs, dances, and plays, students do go to classes! However, because there is a warm atmosphere between teachers and students, subjects are not dull. Pupils may be learning the date of the Declaration of Independence or looking at algae through a microscope, but Gray students never get bored!

Typing student Barbara Bramlett drills to improve co-ordination and skills.

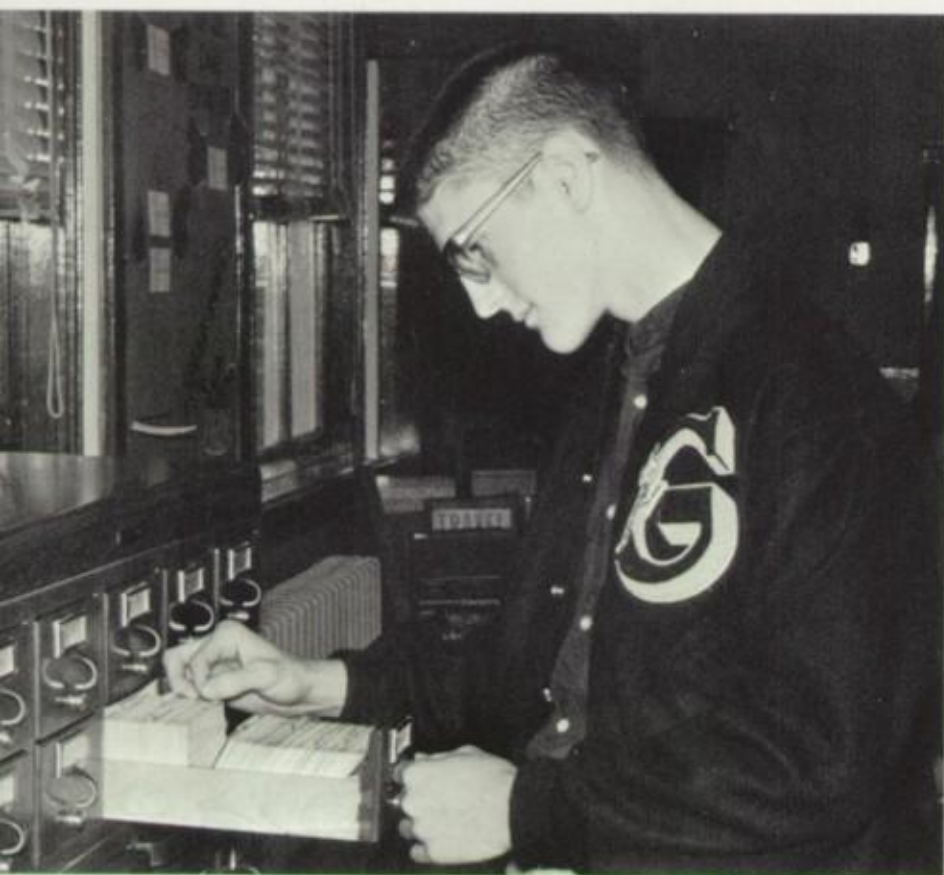

Psychology student Glenn Thore listens attentively as his classmate Frances Smith analyzes his personality through interpretation of ink blots. The class strives to delve beneath the physical surface of life to understand the reasons for a person's actions.

Using the woodwork skills that he has learned in his study of industrial arts, Bill Tucker carefully constructs a table.

Applying finishing touches to a tempera painting of city life, art student Phil Everhart strengthens the abstract effect.

Gray presents a variety of courses which interest and challenge each student.

Danny Moffitt searches in the library's card catalog for authoritative references to use in writing a term paper.

Anticipating his project, Terry Young studies a Shakesporean theater constructed by a former senior English student.

Marilyn Macon models the corduroy coat and culottes-jumper ensemble which she made as a project in Home Economics III.

Arriving in Winston-Salem to begin a two-month visit to Gray High School as part of an exchange program, Gloria Cote waves to her "adopted" sister, Judy Self. Gloria descends the steps of the jet air-liner that brought her from Bucaramanga, Colombia.

Mrs. Carrie May Allgood, foreign language teacher, familiarizes Gloria with school activities and campus surroundings.

Gloria laughs at her mispronunciations as she diligently studies American phrases.

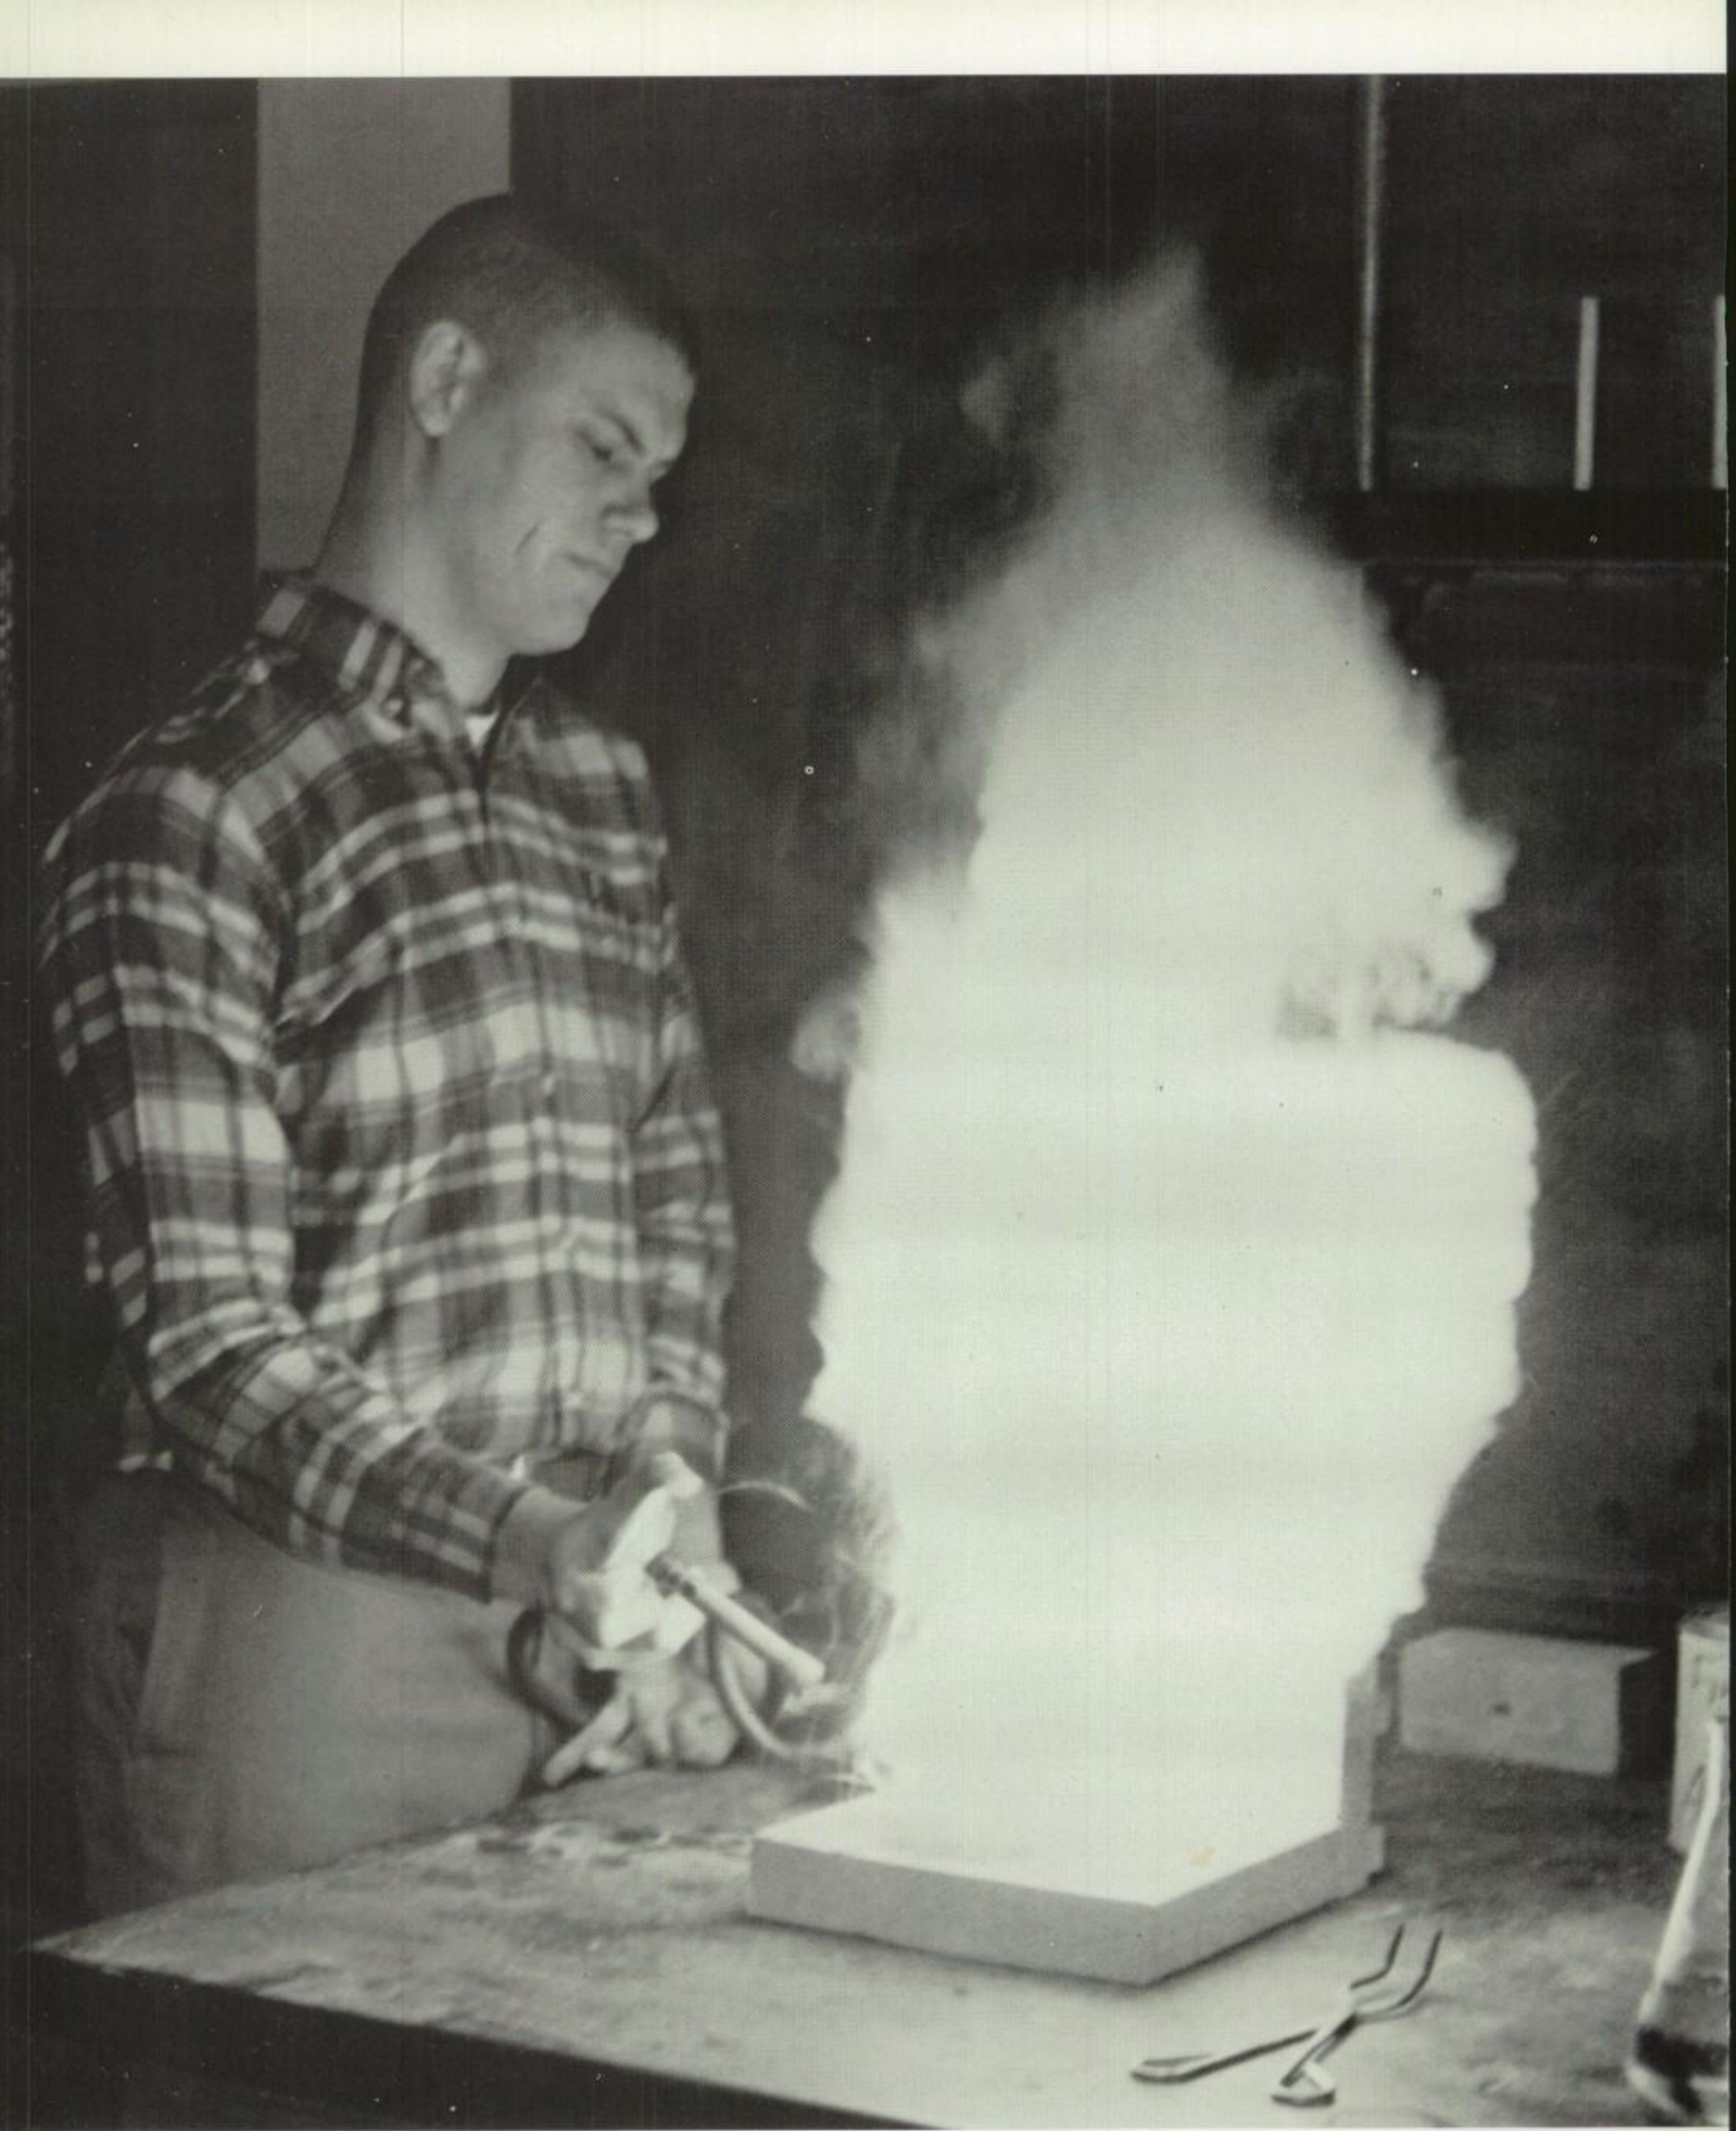

Enjoying the relaxation of a leisurely early morning breakfast, Gloria and her hostess, Judy Self, anticipate plans and important events of the coming day.

Gray's foreign student, Gloria Cote, finds teen-agers much the same everywhere.

"Me gusto mucho los alumnos de Gray." "I like the students of Gray very much." These words were expressions of a warm friendship which developed between Gloria Cote, exchange student from Bucaramanga, Colombia, and Grayites. This good fellowship is proof that universal understanding may exist despite any racial and language barriers. While attending Gray during the months of December and January, Gloria lived with Judy Self's family. Many new interests, such as winter sports, were discovered.

During moments of relaxation, Gloria was able to pursue the activities she enjoyed at home. Dancing, swimming, reading, and listening to classical music were among her favorite pastimes. She also liked to watch basketball games. Gloria found this sport especially interesting, since basketball is seldom seen in Colombia. Her favorite subjects are English, algebra, history, and literature. After she finishes her high school education in Cincinnati, Ohio, and returns home, she will travel to Europe.

STUDENTS

In an atmosphere of congeniality and companionship, we meet each day to undertake our studies of the humanities and sciences. Together we probe the absorbing mysteries of biological life, solve the intricate problems of mathematics, and seriously contemplate the deep thoughts expressed in great literature. As we greet each other in the halls, work closely on publications and debates, and enjoy numerous social and athletic events, easy-going Southern informality reigns. Although we are individual in our thoughts and backgrounds, we are united in support of our school and its activities. We gain, not only enduring knowledge and skills, but also friendships that will last for a lifetime.

CLASS

Through the Guidance Department seniors make important decisions concerning the selection of colleges.

Class officers Jack Nance, president; Susan Styron, secretary; Linda Beeker, vice-president; and Phyllis McHargue, treasurer, spend long hours after school making plans for senior activities. Here they discuss samples of graduation cards.

With great anticipation, Gray High School seniors waited with mixed emotions for graduation night, June 3. Under the capable hands of Mrs. Martha Walker, class sponsor, the enthusiastic upperclassmen chose with careful consideration their class motto: "The world stands aside to let anyone pass who knows where he is going"; class color, Carolina blue; and class flower, a white rose. With sincere and grateful hearts, seniors dedicated the 1964 Blue and Gold to Mr. Wayne Wolff for his outstanding contribution to his students and his understanding manner as both a teacher and coach. Planning for their future, the class members attended College Day and Post High School Education Day, and took College Board examinations, a requirement for attending most colleges. Remembering that this, their senior year, was the last one in which to participate in high school extra-curricular activities, the class members engaged in sports, supported ball games, joined clubs to gain social and spiritual experience, and were inducted into honor societies. Attending the class picnic, dancing until midnight at the Senior Prom, gaining enrichment from the Baccalaureate Service, and marching up to receive their diplomas will hold precious places in the hearts of seniors.

Exhibiting leadership and scholastic ability, the Class of '64 has obtained outstanding honors, among which are awards for painting and ceramic design, as well as four-year scholarships. Being selected for the Governor's School gave some of the seniors a chance during the summer months to broaden their education in the fields of music, dance, and cultural subjects.

Preparing to be host to the graduating students, class officers Merle Whitney, treasurer; Penny Martin, secretary; Jerry Martin, vice-president; and Tim Morgan, president, discuss plans for the annual Junior-Senior Prom as they arrive at school after visiting the ballroom of the Robert E. Lee Hotel.

Excited whispers filled the ballroom of the Robert E. Lee Hotel, April 17, when the juniors served as hosts to the seniors at the long-awaited Junior-Senior Prom. The first official act performed as a class was the election of officers in October. Happy smiles and joyous emotions were shared by the juniors when the early arrival of class rings was announced. To many members this was an unexpected but welcomed Christmas gift. The receiving of this traditional gold ring signified that they were at last upperclassmen. Looking back on the memorable events of their sophomore year, they can see how much they have matured. By taking treasured places on varsity athletic teams, they showed their physical growth. The fact that many members were inducted into various honor societies signified their mental progress. Participation in extra-curricular activities such as cheerleading, Dixie Debs, the Student Council, and other clubs has helped make this junior year an enjoyable and beneficial one.

active juniors excel in various fields.

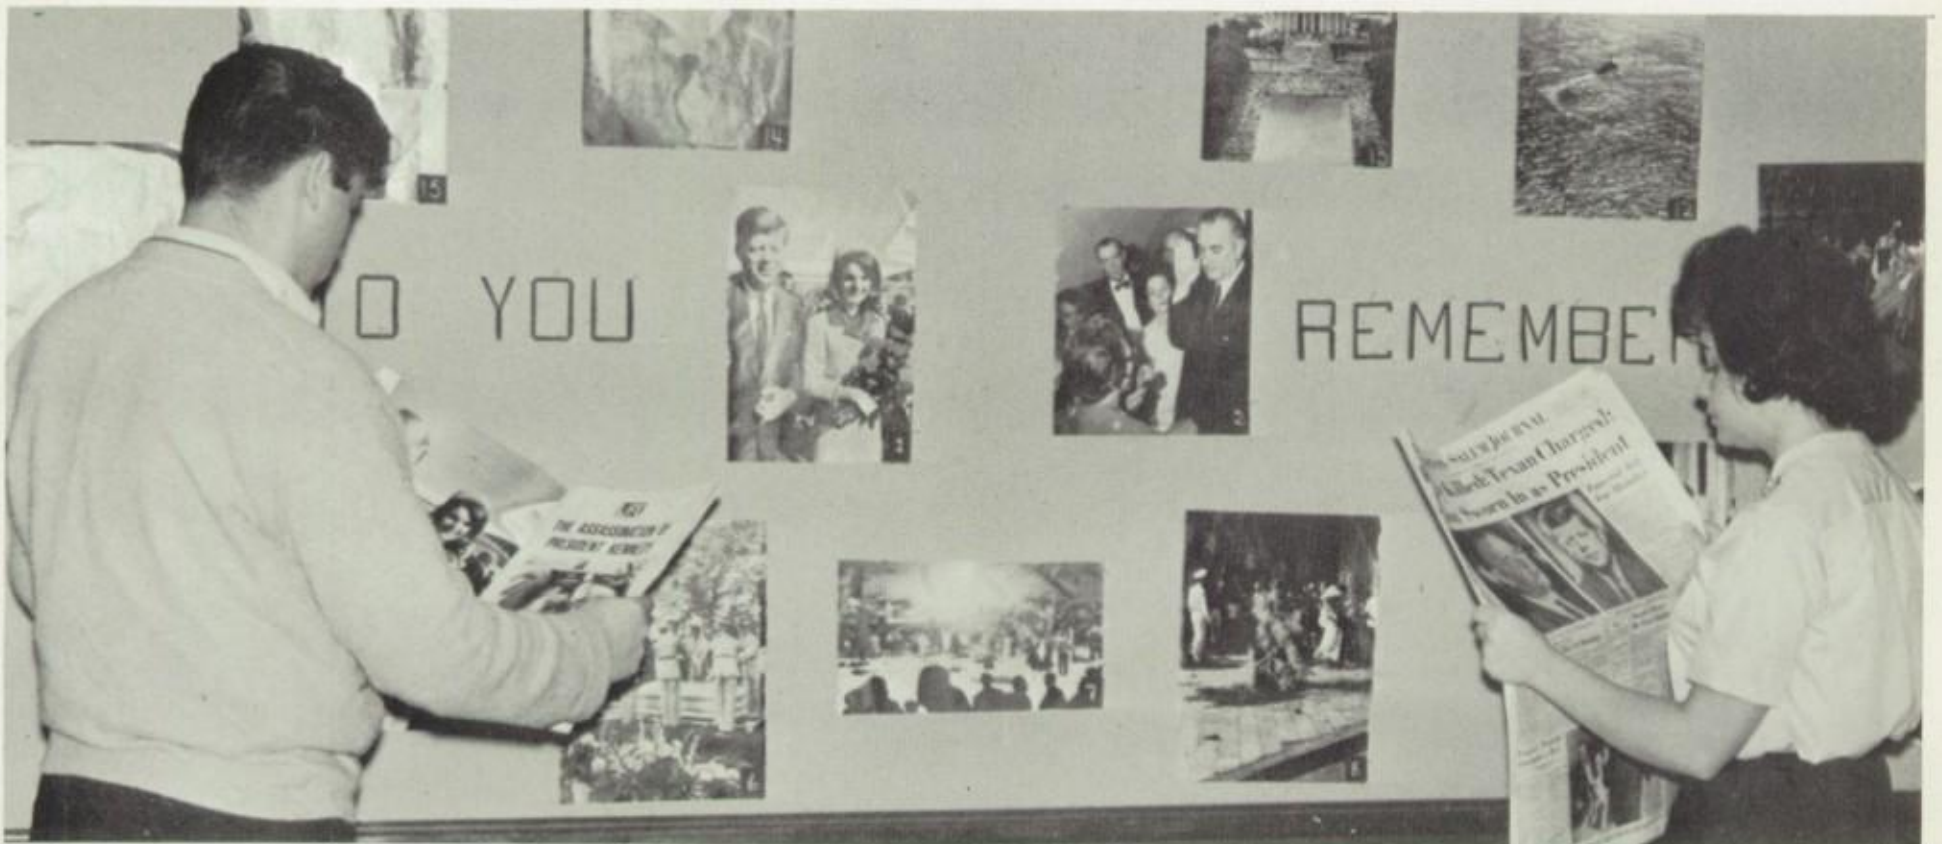

After a rewarding sophomore year, juniors began to take a major role in school activities. They ventured even deeper into the realms of education, taking such courses as Advanced Mathematics, physics, and U.S. History. They also became eligible to obtain cherished membership in the four honor societies. Although juniors enrolled this year from places as far away as Africa and South America, they have the same goal, preparation for their senior year and graduation.

Sophomores dance with Dixie Debs and play junior varsity sports as they become Gray's enthusiastic supporters.

Timidly a zealous group of former junior high students entered Gray High School, September 3. Striving to make the honor roll and at the same time adjusting to the senior high system, underclassmen found determination and the proper attitude essential in getting off to a good start. The study of biology, a typical tenth grade subject, was a fascinating experience for both boys and girls. Observing the "underworld" through a microscope enabled each student to grasp knowledge of the life of plants and animals. Led by George Eliot and other famous authors, students traveled through the world of literature to a better understanding and appreciation of it. Many original ideas and special talents were contributed to journalism publications, the Music and Art Departments, and other fields of study. Developing new interests, the sophs looked forward to future years as debaters, cheerleaders, and members of honor associations. Participating in various clubs and school activities, enthusiastic newcomers quickly became a part of Gray's life. Blending well with the student body, the Class of '66 proved a promising group.

ORGANIZATIONS AND ACTIVITIES

Gray offers each one of us, not only the opportunity for mental development through academic and vocational studies, but also the chance to mature socially, spiritually, and physically within the encircling warmth of friendship and harmony. Gay combo music and vivid decorations beckon us to fun-filled nights at dances sponsored by the Student Organization. We learn about native customs through foreign language clubs, pool our knowledge to make scientific experiments work, develop physical fitness through active sports participation, and find unity of purpose in career organizations. The inductions into honor societies recognize high achievement in the areas of scholarship, leadership, character, and service.

Johnny Whitlatch, president, condenses minutes from the last Student Organization meeting. After compiling the important news and suggestions, he circulates a weekly bulletin to all homerooms.

Co-ordinating and directing the body are the duties performed

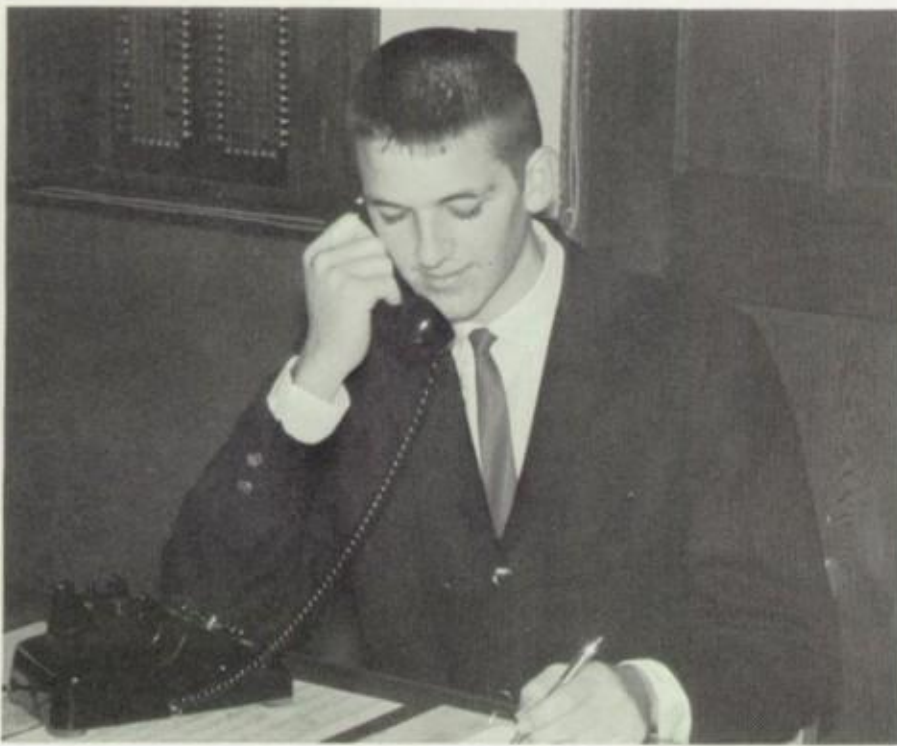

"Hurry, hurry, work and worry" was the theme of Student Organization members as they began to work on their many projects. In addition to the polishing of the brass facings of doors, the Council directed the amending of the school's constitution in accordance with the city's regulations. Other projects sponsored were the Christmas Dance, prior to which Miss Kathleen Hall, former Student Organization advisor, gave the reading of "The Other Wise Man," by Henry Van Dyke. The Student Council also conducted all Twirp Week activities, the Homecoming dances, and the annual clean-up campaign.

Kathy Whitaker, recording secretary, examines the new copy of the school constitution and notes various clauses which the student body unanimously voted to amend.

Vickey Reaves, assistant secretary, prepares to type a special bulletin which the Student Organization distributed to homerooms in order to explain the change in the grading system.

Ray Logan, vice-president, telephones to invite a prominent speaker to talk at the Christmas assembly. The Council sponsors various programs during the year for the benefit of the student body.

many activities of our student by board members and officers.

Composed of officers of the school, departmental superintendents, and homeroom representatives, the Student Council meets every Friday morning to discuss and try to solve various problems. They also plan school-wide socials and assemblies. To be a Council member, a student must maintain a "2" average and good department grades. Through its various branches, the Student Organization seeks to develop attitudes and practices of good citizenship, to assist in directing student activities, to help solve various problems that arise in the school, and to develop and maintain good school spirit.

Susan Styron, corresponding secretary, uses the office mailbox to send letters prompting mutual good sportsmanship with the various schools that our athletic teams meet.

Dolls dressed in bridal attire decorated the centerpiece for the table at a tea honoring our assistant principal, Mr. Robert Severs, and his fiancée, Miss Lenna Rose, December 10. The combined departments of superintendents, in conjunction with the Student Council, sponsored the tea and presented the couple with a gift of silver. Another enjoyable occasion brought shimmering candlelight, romantic music, and a bough of mistletoe to enchanted Grayites December 14. At the Christmas Dance, sugar cake and hot coffee, traditional Moravian refreshments, were served.

Entertaining, however, is not the only objective of the superintendents. The interior department undertook the responsibility of cleaning the brass plates on the doors. Another service rendered was the "Big Brother, Big Sister" project, sponsored by the public relations department. The personal relations department sends cards of congratulations and sympathy to students on appropriate occasions. The campus department keeps the school attractive. Other departments, such as hall monitors, traffic, and hospitality join in working to keep the school functioning smoothly.

BLUE and GOLD staff members toil to make medalist yearbook their goal.

Journalism students, realizing the nearing date line of February 12, worked late in the afternoons and at night in room 215 checking, proofing, and making final adjustments in order to complete the yearbook. Arranging pictures, planning division pages, and creating interesting copy in order to assure an excellent publication have been the goals of the staff. Although there is an ever-present time element, copy is repeatedly re-written and perfected. Enjoying nabs and drinks, students worked diligently in informal gatherings at their homes or school to examine and conclude the yearbook. Smiles of satisfaction and accomplishment brighten faces as the final product is presented.

Carefully gathering news and sizing pictures for the Gray Light are duties that keep co-editors Donna Reifsnider and Linda Larrymore busy working for a first-place rating.

GRAY LIGHT reporters check beats, write features to meet final deadline.

Although class had not yet begun, a teacher, concentrating on the work at her desk, noticed a deadly silence. Surprised, she looked up and saw that the November 14 issue of the Gray Light had been distributed and was the center of the class's attention. When journalism students hear incidents of this nature, the counting of heads and stories and the last minute rushing are forgotten in pride. A first-year journalism student learns that, with editors and reporters working diligently together, they can publish four printed editions and several mimeographed copies of the newspaper. Pupils learn, too, of fun intermingled with work, for more than once in a year a reason is found for a party!

Having a high scholastic average, notable record for service, the quality of leadership, and an outstanding character, nineteen students were inducted into the Gamma Chapter of the National Honor Society, January 29. To both the old and new members, Mr. Robert R. Severs, assistant principal, administered the oath, by which they promised to uphold the high standards of the organization. Led by Miss Daisy Lee Glasgow, society members participate in many activities, among which are ushering at all school assemblies and at night programs, leading the morning devotions, sponsoring the Christmas bulletin board contest, and attending the state convention. To be eligible for membership, one must have as a junior a ninety-two average, as a senior a ninety average.

Oral interpretations, debates, and speeches by Masque and Gavel members filled the air of room 304 prior to the Wake Forest Speech Festival, held in March. Aided by Mrs. Penny McJunkin, members participated in various debates throughout the year. Before being inducted into this honor society for speech and dramatics students, one must maintain good academic and conduct records, with a "3" average in either speech or dramatics. Another honor society, the Quill and Scroll, is composed of second-year journalism students who have had at least 50 inches of material printed. Other requisites for membership are a "3" or above subject average, an "E" on conduct, and a "4" on journalism. Members are directed by Miss Moselle Stephenson.

Thespians were recompensed for their anxieties of opening nights, remembering lines, and recognizing cues, January 17, when enthusiastic applause signified the satisfaction of their audience. Points for induction into this honor society for dramatics students are earned by performing on stage. Another way to acquire points is to help behind the scenes with make-up, lighting, props, and costumes. Assisting the dramatics coach in directing the plays also earns points. Those who qualify must maintain a "2" scholastic average and an excellent deportment grade. Miss Reta Peoples is sponsor.

Eagerly awaiting cues, members of the cast of "If a Man Answers" stood anxiously backstage the evening of January 17. At this time the Dramateers presented their first program of the year, a three-act comedy, by Winfred Wolfe. Later in the year they staged a one-act play. Students who did not participate in the play worked behind the scenes performing various tasks, including preparing the necessary props and learning the art of the proper use of make-up and the effects of correct lighting.

Kicking a field goal, a chubby football player dominated a bulletin board representing the Junior Red Cross Membership Drive, November 18-22. This year being the 100th anniversary of the Red Cross, representatives urged student participation. Full support for the project was shown, as all homerooms reported one hundred per cent. As their annual Christmas project the Junior Red Cross, sponsored by Miss Saxon Bray, spread cheer during the Yuletide season by visiting the Salem and Baptist homes for the aged and by decorating a tree for the residents of the homes.

Eagerly seeking the role of being foster parents, the Health Careers Club planned numerous bake, rummage, and doughnut sales in order to raise money to adopt through the Christian Children's Fund an orphan in a foreign country. Excited members decided this project would be their main one for the year. Other events included planned tours of the Baptist and Forsyth Memorial hospitals and a Valentine Party given with the members of the Junior Red Cross. The club was represented by six of its members at the District Congress held in Greensboro, November 23. Sponsored by Mrs. Clara Field, biology teacher; and Mrs. Donald Hayes, a doctor's wife, the Health Careers Club was organized by students and is open to all interested in a medical career.

"We're Number One!" After much hard work and intense Bible study the above exclamation was the joyful cry of the Gray High Youth for Christ Quiz Team at the time the yearbook went to press. These quizzes took place at the Youth for Christ rallies, which were held on alternate Saturday nights at South Park School. Quizzers were up against stiff competition from other groups from various schools in the surrounding area. Highlighting weekly meetings and Y.F.C. rallies were a variety of special music programs and guest speakers talking to the youths on topics concerning social and spiritual aspects of life. One of the most outstanding events of the year was the "Valentine" banquet given in February and planned entirely by the teenage set.

Distributive education, an addition to Gray's curriculum, gives students the dual opportunity to combine school work with beneficial part-time jobs.

"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," agreed enthusiastic D.E. students as they left for a day of competitions and discussions at the North Carolina Distributive Education District 5 Convention, held at North High School, November 13. A job interview was among the contests entered, and a beauty queen was chosen on the basis of appropriateness of her business dress. Meeting in the new mobile unit at the north end of the school, the Distributive Education Club began its second year in training by planning the yearly project of preparing a business handbook to be distributed to all seniors entering the business world. The purpose of the D.E. Club is to combine classroom instruction with part-time work experience and to establish a better public relationship between the school and the business community. D.E. enables students to transfer the contents of books and charts to their minds, and then apply to their jobs what they have learned. Mrs. Barbara Coble is sponsor.

Participating in diverse varsity games and intramural play such as softball and ping-pong, G.A.A. members earn quality points for athletic monograms.

Human croquet! This game was one of the many relays performed by G.A.A. participants in Play Day, held at the University of North Carolina, in Greensboro in May. Girls acted as human wickets and balls for the game. On other relays they were kangaroos and frogs that left them jumping, rolling, or even hula-hooping. Opening the slate of intramurals for the Girls Athletic Association were speedball and volleyball. In addition, members participated in basketball, tennis, ping pong, softball, shuffleboard, and a new sport, crab soccer. The G.A.A. gives students a chance, not only to become acquainted with girls of other schools, but also to develop sportsmanship. Eligibility requirements, a minimum of fifty points, are earned by participating in afternoon intramurals. By the end of the year, all who have earned one hundred points may wear a shield; those with two hundred, a sports monogram, and for each additional hundred, a star. Miss Mary Alice Munn is sponsor.

Working toward the goal of becoming teachers, the F.T.A.'s drew up and adopted a constitution at their first meeting, October 29. At this time, Mr. Raymond Sarbaugh, assistant associate superintendent of the Winston-Salem/Forsyth County School System, spoke on the importance of making the right selection of colleges. Discussion at other club meetings were based upon the art of teaching and the advantages and disadvantages of the profession. Many students received practical experience by conducting classes on Student Teacher Day, when pupils assumed the responsibility of teaching classes. Another project sponsored by the group was Teacher Appreciation Day. At this time, a gift was presented to each faculty member in gratitude for her work.

Sleepy-eyed members of the Future Homemakers of America arose early the morning of November 27 to serve coffee and doughnuts to the faculty from 8:00 to 8:30 in the home economics room. For this second breakfast, decorations consisted of apples made to represent turkeys and an arrangement of flowers on the tables. Another important event was the F.H.A. District Rally, held October 12, at Asheboro Senior High School. Delegates from the club listened to an informative program entitled, "Focus on Family Living." Another project of the F.H.A. members was to learn how to make Christmas decorations for use in their own homes. In order to raise money for the needy, Junior Y-Teens conduct bake sales.

Instead of donning the traditional Halloween dress to "trick or treat" for goodies, the Junior Y-Teens solicited contributions for UNICEF, October 31. Approximately twenty girls, carrying their milk cartons, which were used for collecting, participated in the annual event. For other holiday services, the girls played turkey, Santa Claus, and the Easter Bunny for a needy family during Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter. They presented this family with gifts such as food, clothes, and toys. "Cakes for Sale" signs were hanging at Winn-Dixie, November 2. This time the girls baked cakes to pay for their yearbook pictures. Highlighting the year, the World Wide Fellowship Service, a required special recognition meeting for all Y-Teen members, was held at the Centenary Methodist Church November 17.

Y-Teen members operate snack bars, sponsor UNICEF "Trick or Treating."

"Splish, splash" was a constant sound heard by all in the vicinity of a service station where the senior Y-Teens held a car wash, October 26. Not only did each car get a complete scrub down, but also the girls managed to become thoroughly drenched. Another festive occasion was a talent show, held December 5, of which "Showboat" was the theme. Although the members shared much fun, they also contributed their time and service to the community. During the home basketball games the Y-Teens were responsible for selling refreshments at the snack bar. Corresponding with the Y-Teens in the Philippine Islands was another undertaking of the club. Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Suzanne Linder, the Senior Y-Teens achieved goals in both service and fellowship among the peoples of the world.

Visualizing an imaginary trip, French Club members watch European slides.

Susan Blalock, vice-president, observes as Lou Ann Wall, president, and Susan Styron, secretary, view maps and pamphlets in preparation for giving a report describing the Eiffel Tower and other scenic attractions of France.

Sparkling eyes and inquisitive minds of French Club members studied the romantic country of France and its enchanting language. Composed of second and third-year French students, the club was sponsored by Mrs. Carrie May Allgood. Meeting each month, the club had a cultural program to bring to the members a greater knowledge of France and a better understanding of its language. With a recreational program, the organization introduced interesting games and songs, both done "en francais" in "lieu" of English. Tasty refreshments, served in French style, created interest in the customs of France.

Senors and senoritas south of the border? Si, but we have them right here at Gray High School in the Spanish Club! It was evident at the meetings that everyone was interested in the language; customs; people of Spain; and our neighbors to the south, Old Mexico. Speakers were welcomed on various occasions; and games and refreshments were enjoyed at all the monthly meetings. To enter into the Christmas mood, the pinata was broken at the December Festival, Spanish games were played, and savory Spanish food and candy were served. These entertaining events were held in the homes of members.

Latin club members, by giving skits and playing language games, enjoy meetings filled with Roman fantasy.

Curiosity was aroused in the halls of Gray when the Latin Club began the observance of Latin Week, April 20-24. They decorated bulletin boards displaying the existence of the ancient language in our lives today, and used famous Roman sayings in conversation among themselves. At the end of the week, the club, arrayed in Roman costumes, held a banquet at the home of their sponsor, Mrs. Eloise Curlee. Other highlights of the year were the Christmas party, December 12, and the arrival of Latin Club pins. The club was composed of interested Latin students.

German classes delight in translating, as well as illustrating, nursery rhymes to be included in children's books.

Hickory, Dickory, Dock! Der Maus ist die Gleeke hinaufgelaufen. Nursery rhymes in senior high? Yes, reading German nursery rhymes was one project of the German Club, which is sponsored by Mrs. Eloise Curlee. The club, which is composed of only thirteen members, translated into English and illustrated two German nursery rhyme books, and then presented them to some children in the city. Through this project and the playing of Scrabble and Bingo with German words, members gained a better understanding of the German language, as well as receiving hours of enjoyment.

"Make that basket!" This thought was uppermost in the minds of spectators the night of the annual Key Club vs. Faculty basketball game. The club was demonstrating only one of its many activities to help brighten school and community life. The members direct student parking on the school campus and worked out plans for permanent parking spaces to be reserved for the faculty. Another service was performed by the club at Thanksgiving, when members sponsored the annual food drive. Each student was asked to donate at least two cans of food to be distributed by the Salvation Army. Boys are inducted after being recommended by members and by being approved by the faculty for admission.

Advanced Chorus works long hours in preparation for special concerts.

Rhythmic melodies emanated from room 117 as the Advanced Chorus combined with the Sophomore Chorus to prepare for a fall concert, presented in the school auditorium, October 31. Under the direction of their choirmaster, Mr. John W. LaCava, they sang selections, which ranged from "Alleluia" to "Get Me to the Church on Time." Another of the activities of the advanced group was a P.T.A. program highlighting old favorites in Yuletide music, December 17. This performance was given to the student body earlier in the day. Accompanist for programs was Trina Teague. In addition, the choristers went caroling December 19. After singing at a local shopping center, they visited the hospitals and rest homes to bring a merrier Christmas to the patients there. In the spring, the chorus presented the long-anticipated, semi-formal "pops" concert. Also during the year, those members who excelled in their class were permitted to attend clinics.

Mr. John LaCava, director of the Music Department, leads a group of Advanced Chorus members in a popular medley of songs in practice for the Greensboro Festival, to be held in March.

Songs of Yuletide greetings filled the air December 20, when the Combined Chorus presented its Christmas program to the students.

Sounds of music echoed through the halls of the first floor during fourth period. The lovely tunes came from the voices of junior and senior girls who were members of the Glee Club. Under the baton of Mr. John LaCava, they gave many concerts with the help of the chorus master, Kathy Whitaker. Filing and distributing music was the job of the librarian, Janet Fletcher. Accompanied by Vicki Wilson, the Glee Club has had a year of learning seasonal songs.

Sophomore Chorus, new in the Music Department, sings popular melodies.

With knees shaking, the members of the Sophomore Chorus harmonized before the student body and faculty, October 31. Slow and easy songs such as "Climb Every Mountain," "Moon River," "Ave Maria," and "Ave Verum Corpus" were presented to an appreciative audience. Earlier in the year the class elected its officers, who decided upon rules to be followed. Mike McKnight was selected chorus master; Barry Ernst, manager; and Carolyn Stout, secretary. Being chorus master, Mike McKnight kept order when Mr. LaCava was attending to other business, and Barry Ernst took charge of all transportation. Carolyn Stout took notes at the meetings held every month, typed rules and regulations, and stamped and recorded all new music. Throughout the year the chorus presented to the student body, faculty, and P.T.A. programs ranging from the Christmas Story to Easter concerts. In order to aid the younger group, the Advanced Chorus joined the sophomores.

"Walking in a winter wonderland," sing Mike McKnight and Terry Gordon, chorus masters, as they recall selections they sang for the annual P.T.A. Christmas program, presented December 17.

After practicing regularly during summer months, spirited cheerleaders sparked a successful year by introducing and leading new yells at the first pep rally, held in the boys' gym, September 5. These thirteen girls combined fun and duty by decorating goal posts at home football games. Members of the squad also served drinks to the visiting cheerleaders during the half-time ceremonies. Another way in which the girls created enthusiasm among their fellow students during football and basketball season was by preparing rousing victory posters during many hours spent after school. As a climax to the football season, the cheerleaders attended the annual banquet held in honor of the team. Co-sponsors of the group are Mrs. Linda Combs and Miss Mary Carlton.

Working earnestly during the summer months and spending many hours practicing after school prepared the majorettes for the first half-time show, at Bowman Gray Stadium, September 5. Under the direction of Mr. John LaCava, the squad, which consisted of nine regulars and five alternates, twirled fire batons at the Gray vs. Reidsville game, at Reidsville, October 4. The majorettes spun the blazing batons high into the night air as the thrilled crowd cheered the performance. High-stepping at football pep rallies and marching in the Winston-Salem annual Christmas Parade to familiar music such as, "Here Comes Santa Claus," "Frosty the Snowman," "Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer," and "Winter Wonderland" will long be remembered by the majorettes.

The group performed such routines as "Dixie," "Surry with the Fringe on the Top," and "The Stripper." Katrina Teague, Toni Vargas, Sterling Johnson, and chief Donna Finley were choreographers for the dances and practice drills. The attractive uniforms of royal blue, white, and gold added a neat aspect to the group as they made their second appearance in the annual Christmas parade, November 30. Membership requisites of a "2" scholarship average and "E" on conduct were planned by Mrs. Suzanne Linder, Deb sponsor, and secretaries.

Grayites combine academic pursuits

Whether a Dixie Deb, a student teacher, a color guard, a member of a language club, or a cheerleader, we work together with earnestness and co-operation. We strive to function as a unified school, each individual working in harmony. Student-Teacher Day, a change from the daily routine, is evidence of our good faculty-pupil relationship. With patches, a powder-puff football game, dress-alike day, and the crowning of the queen, Twirp Week highlights the romantic phase of the year.

ATHLETICS

Whether as a part of prescribed courses or a recreational outlet, sports play a vital role in our lives. Physical education classes, which are required of all sophomores and juniors, offer the opportunity to acquire the basic skills in a wide variety of sports. After classroom hours our levels of athletics range from intramurals to interschool play within the central 4-A conference. Active participation helps us to gain physical fitness, to develop good sportsmanship, and to acquire the ability to function as team members. Associations with those with whom we play form lasting friendships. Either as participants or as ardent fans, we are joined by a bond of mutual support for the 'Hounds.

Competing against only one team the whole season, the squad took three consecutive games. The five returnees, plus seven new enthusiastic members were coached by Miss Mary Alice Munn. Pitcher Jane Trent helped lead the team by throwing curved balls, and in many innings she had three-up, three-down batters.

Starting competition May 6, the 'Houndettes captured their first victory over Reynolds, 22-2. The second match, May 15, was another triumph for the team, with the final score being 15-4. Playing the last game May 20, the squad won, 38-18. By beginning practice early in the spring the girls were prepared to meet the Demonettes.

Enthusiasm and high spirits were key factors in the victories of the girls' speedball team this season, which began October 22. By defeating Grimsley 10-3, November 21, the girls won the overall competition in the city. Heading the team in scoring were Bobby Forcum, with 41 points, and Sandra Boner, with 23. Since strenuous exercise is the password for the development of physical fitness, vigorous activity is an essential part of the physical education program. Juniors Phyllis McCurdy and Becky Morris stretch abdominal muscles to reach their toes.

In high spirits and full of boundless energy, eighteen girls from Gray started on the school bus to the Volleyball Play Day, held at Page High School in Greensboro, N. C., October 23. Starting off with a round robin tournament, the day ended in a single elimination tournament, in which Gray placed third runner-up. Other schools which participated were Grimsley, Smith, Curry, High Point and Page. By participating in this event, the girls received a sneak preview of what the long practice hours of volleyball would be like.

In the past there have been only three varsity sports for girls: speedball, basketball, and softball. This year as a result of the consolidation of the city and county schools, volleyball was added. A familiar sport in classes and in intramural games after school, it made its debut as a competitive sport.

Win or lose, Grayhounds always show

Hot, balmy weather was characteristic of August, the month Gray's football team began drills in preparation for the 1963 football season. Against new cross-town rival North, September 5, the Grayhounds splashed around in a driving rain and finally emerged a 7-6 victor. Linebacker Charles Noell's defensive effort was well worth a second glance. Over heavily favored High Point, September 13, Gray registered an impressive 14-7 win. Sparking the Gray offense were Max Lambeth and Tim Morgan. Running from half-back slots, these boys consistently advanced into the opponent's secondary for substantial gains. Boosted by two early victories, the Gray spirit was at its peak as the team prepared for the contest with the Reynolds High Demons.

Unlimited confidence was expressed at a roaring pep rally, which preceded the Demon contest. Tension mounted steadily as the 8:00 p.m. game time approached. However, Grayhound supporters watched in horror as the Black Demons, burning the 'Hounds with three touchdowns, defeated them, 19-0. So broken was the team's momentum that they proceeded to drop six consecutive games before staging a rally against the Granite Bears of Mt. Airy and beating them 26-13, November 1. During their drought the 'Hounds lost contests to Greensboro's Grimsley and Page, Salisbury, Reidsville, and Burlington. Quarterback Don Hamby led the victory over Mt. Airy by engineering three touchdowns. Compiling a 3-7 record, Gray terminated their season with a 28-6 loss.

Anticipating the first basketball game of the season with East Forsyth, December 3, the 'Hounds started early in November practicing for the heavy schedule ahead. Faced with a handicap of only two varsity players returning, Coach Wayne Wolff, assisted by Mr. Bobby Robinson, put the cagers through many vigorous drills. Starting the season with inter-conference games, the inexperienced 'Hounds were defeated by East 74-55. High scorers for Gray have been Steve Thomas, with a 10.6 average and Dale Taylor, a 9.4 point average per game. Also assisting with scoring have been Vick Sinclair and Garry Gardner. With the virus hitting hard, the team suffered by losing such top players as Ray Logan and Garry Gardner. However, moving up from the jayvee team, Don Hamby helped to solve this problem with his accurate shooting and offensive playing.

Row one: R. Sapp, T. Newsom, T. Robertson, J. Whitlatch, J.

Thumping of gloves and cracking of bats open the baseball season.

Sparkling the baseball team to a winning record were six returning lettermen. Providing the backbone for the outfield were Leon Tomlin, Johnny Whitlatch, and Danny Williard. Leading the infield were Eddie Little, Robert Sapp, and Jimmy Lunsford. The 'Hounds played consistently, defeating such conference teams as Reynolds, 3-1 and 7-5; Burlington, 2-1; High Point 7-0 and 6-3; Greensboro Page, 8-2; and Salisbury, 4-2 and 4-1. In the exciting Forsyth County Tournament, the 'Hounds finished runner-up. Gray registered victories over Northwest, 6-4; Southwest, 12-0; and lost to East in the championship contest, 3-2. Robert Sapp, third baseman, and Danny Williard, right fielder, were chosen by the Forsyth coaches as members of the Forsyth County All-Star Team.

Coach Phillip Morris gives Danny Williard pointers on raising his batting average.

During an early work out Eddie Little, shortstop on the varsity baseball team, reaches for the ball to tag Jimmy Lunsford, who is trying for a two-base hit.

Row one: D. Hamrick, P. Shelton, G. Gardner, D. Moffitt, G. Thore. Row two: H. Moody, C. Skarzynski, C. Noell, R. Evans,

M. Lambeth, P. Satterfield, T. Wolfe, R. Anderson, M. McKnight.

Warm weather calls boys outdoors to practice for competition in track.

Under the watchful eye of Coach Carl Motsinger, 'Hound cindermen began their extensive training program March 1. Having lost only two of fifteen lettermen to graduation, the 'Hounds came out on top of two meets by whipping Mt. Airy twice, 73-34 and 53-43, respectively. However, they found the going rough when they met defeat at the hands of Salisbury Boyden 91-38, and Lexington, 62-49. Vying for first place in the running events were Glenn Thore in the mile, Charles Noell in the 880, and Pete Shelton in the 440 dashes. Meanwhile, juniors Rodney Anderson and Garry Gardner paced the team, throwing the shot put and discus. Contending for honors in the jumping events were Richard Evans, competing in the high hurdles, and Tommy Wolfe in the broad jump.

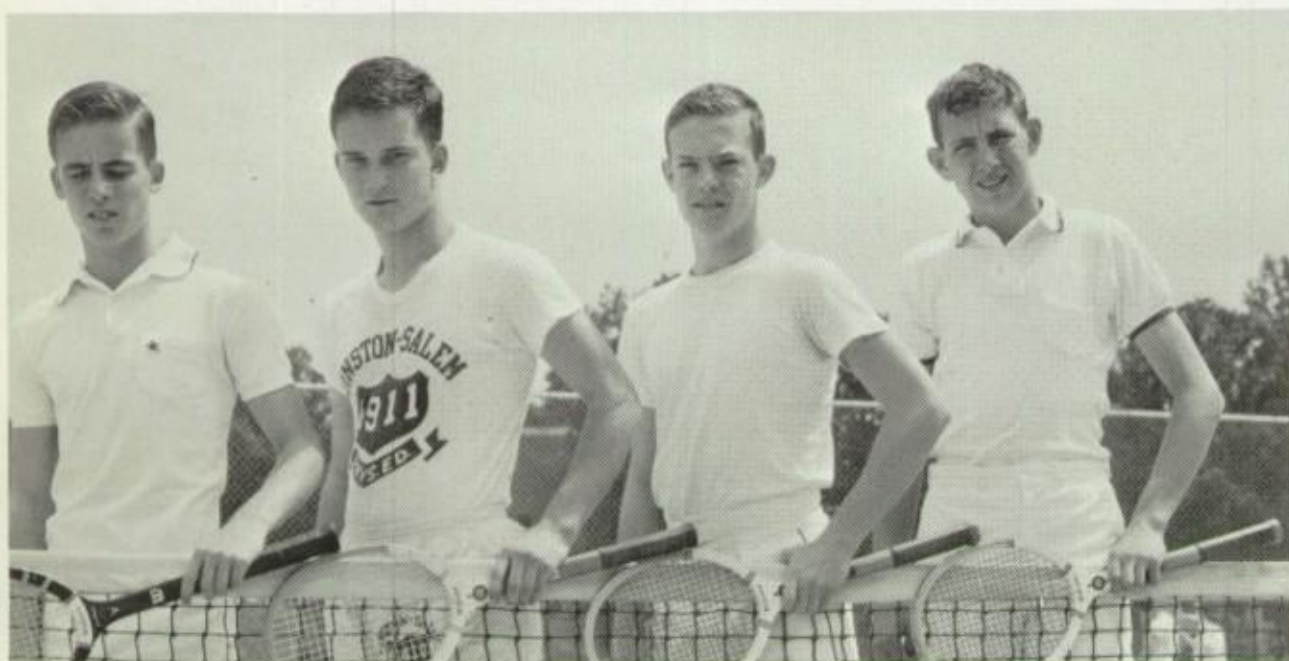

Striving for a record leap, Tommy Wolfe attempts the broad jump in preparation for coming events.

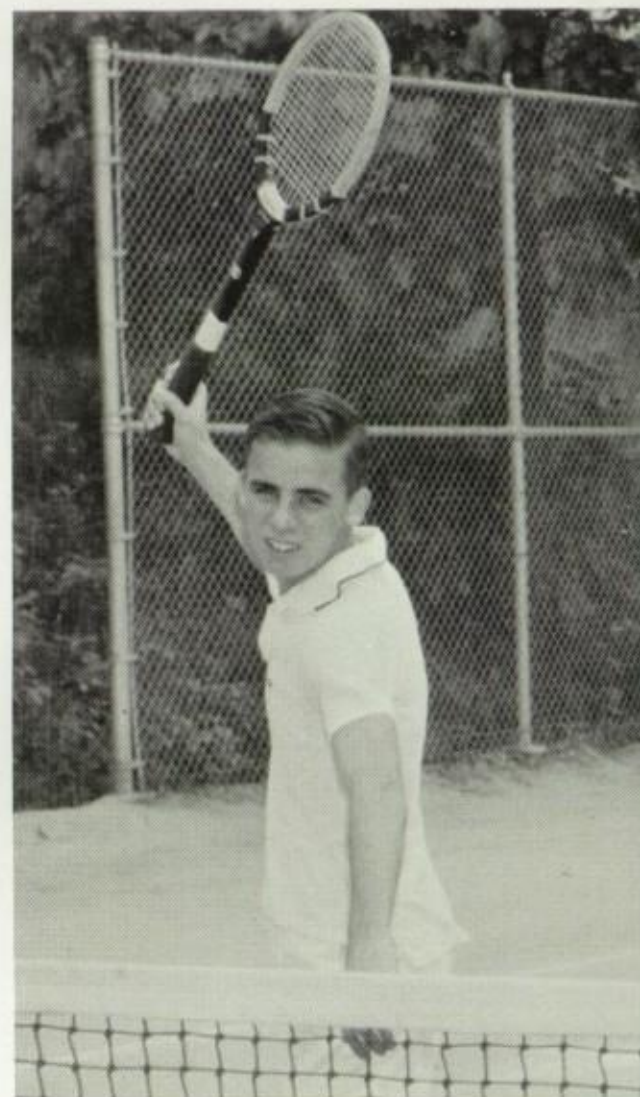

In friendly competition during practice Danny Moffitt and Richard Evans spring with high speed over the low hurdles in order to increase their records.

Golf players Joe Roski, Steve Bowen, Steve Thomas, and Bill Reece prepare to tee off in an after-school practice.

Tennis players Larry Braswell, Jimmy Turner, Jay Steelman, and Sonny Herdman stop during an afternoon practice session to rest and talk about prospects of the coming season.

Golf and tennis are included to give Gray a well-rounded sports program.

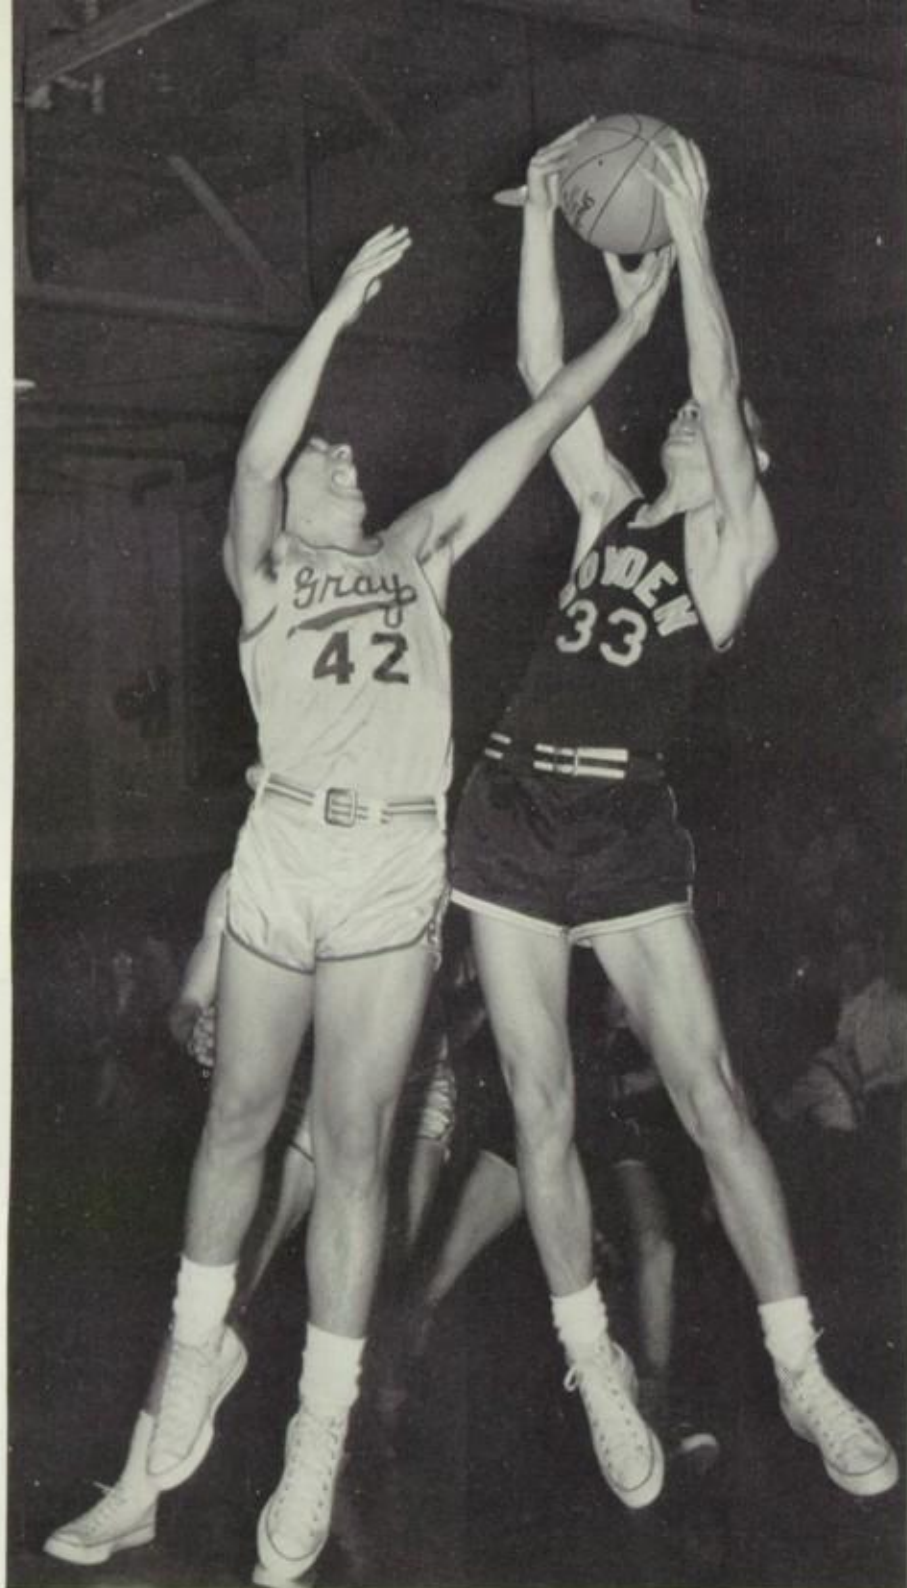

During long winter months and restricted outdoor activity, Grayites eagerly looked forward to warm spring days and the opening of the tennis and golf seasons. Rounding out a well-balanced sports program, these activities meet with much enthusiasm. Recently added to the curriculum, golf is played intermurally. Composed of six members, the team meets each week during the season with Coach Homer Thompson at a designated place to join with the seven Central 4-A conference schools in regular matches. The tennis team, composed of six members, joins other schools in a series of six singles and three doubles matches to determine the championship.

Relaxing from duties, Coach Homer Thompson, Bobby Robinson, Wayne Wolff, and Carl Motsinger discuss amusing experiences.

Physical education offers opportunity for practice, excitement, and fellowship.

During afternoon wrestling practice, Jerry Isaacs practices a hold on Junior Spach in preparation for intramural matches.

Struggling to capture the rebound, Bobby Conrad reaches to snatch the basketball from a Salisbury Boyden player.

The Grayhound defensive team rushes in to stop a goal drive during the final minutes of the Gray-Reynolds football game.

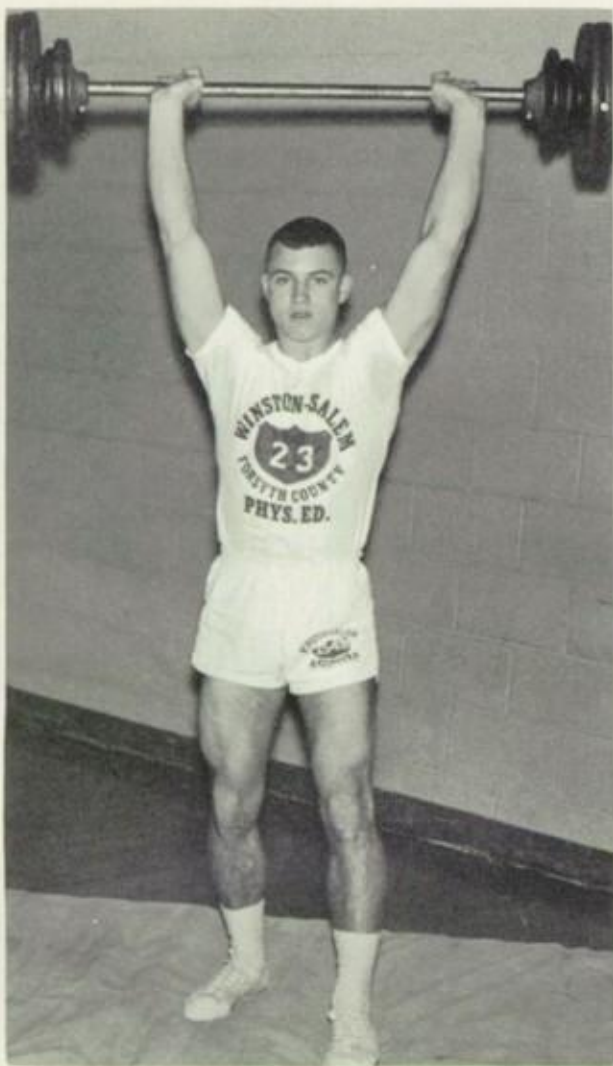

Thomas Cline tries his skill in rope-climbing during a physical education class.

Sailing through the air, Deryl Harper performs a tumbling stunt with Harry Brooks, Junior Spach, Gene Beck, and Jerry Isaacs.

Practicing for a baseball game with Reynolds are Grayites Leon Tomlin and Mike Furches.

Sounds of shuffling feet and animated voices pierce the air as physical education students diligently work to improve physical fitness through strenuous exercise, various skill tests, and hygiene lessons. Participation in after-school athletic programs, not only offers a chance to improve physical dexterity, but also the enjoyments of fellowship with those who share a common interest. Whether winning or losing, Grayites always take pride in their team's skill and good sportsmanship.

Junior Mike McKnight presses 160 pounds during a weight-lifting session.

Attempting to chin the horizontal bar, Ronnie Bean exerts all his energy.

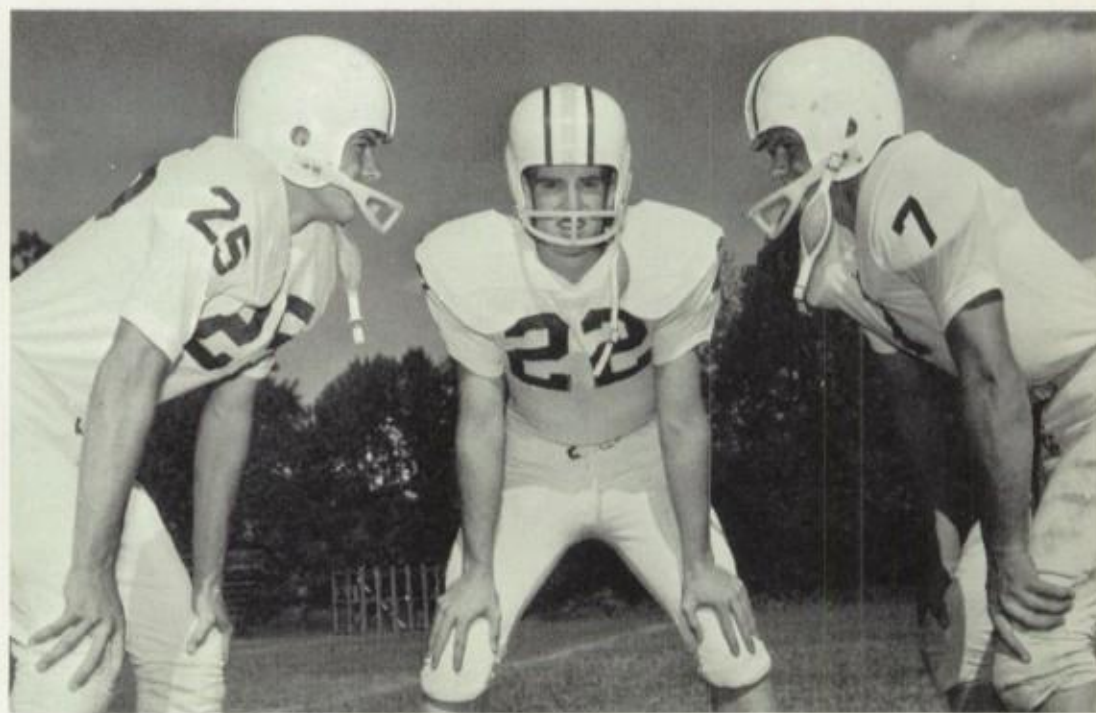

Coach Homer Thompson sends tackle Danny Cook into the starting line-up.

P.E. students develop gymnastic skills while learning the rules of physical fitness.

Eugene Tow practices with the rebounding machine during strenuous basketball drills.
